CAROLINA FOILS EFFORT TO TAKE BALLOT BOXES

Tarheel State Defies Senate in Refusal to Surrender.

OFFICIAL CONTESTS SEIZURE AUTHORITY

Republican Circles Whisper That All Votes Have Been Destroyed.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

That proud and jealous body, the United States Senate, has been defied again, this time by a sovereign State of the Union—North Carolina.

The Tarheel State, which began practicing defiance when the citizens of Mecklenburg County declared their independence of England in 1775, a year before the thirteen colonies as a whole took action, now refuses to turn over to the Senate the ballot boxes used in the last senatorial election.

Two Federal judges in North Carolina had ordered the ballot boxes seized and held for the Senate, but yesterday the attorney general for the State challenged the right of the Senate to have them.

A subcommittee of the Senate, composed of Senators Watson, of Indiana, and Moses, of New Hampshire (Republicans), and Bulkley, of Ohio (Democrat), wants possession of the ballot boxes to determine whether the senatorial election was stolen by the Democrats, as has been alleged.

Won Over Simmons.

The Democratic candidate in that election was Josiah W. Bailey, who had won out in the primaries over Al Smith's foe, the veteran Furnifold Simmons, a United States senator for 30 years. The Republican candidate was George M. Pritchard, a former member of the House.

When the election was over, Mr. Bailey was declared winner by a plurality of 113,000 votes. Mr. Prichard complained. There had been "errors and irregularities," he said, adding that if these were corrected, it would be found that he was the winner by at least 10,000 votes.

He filed a petition with the Senate, whereupon the aforementioned elections subcommittee was assigned to investigate. From the very beginning, however, it would appear that the Senate has been given the run-around. The story, as gathered here and in North Carolina, goes something like this:

First, Senator Moses wrote to Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, and asked him to impound the ballots in the Bailey-Pritchard contest so that they might be counted by the elections subcommittee. Gov. Gardner, so it is reported, ignored the Moses letter.

Resolution Fails Twice.

Twice an attempt was made to put a resolution through the North Carolina Legislature, a resolution directing the governor to order the ballot boxes turned over to the Senate subcommittee. Twice the resolution failed.

Exasperated, Senator Watson telephoned to Gov. Gardner in an effort to find out what was going to be done. The best he could do was to talk to the governor's secretary, who promised everything and delivered nothing.

Finally, Senator Watson called in Edward F. Colladay, local attorney, and the Republican national committeeman for the District of Columbia. Mr. Colladay, who is counsel for the elections subcommittee, drew up a petition urging the three Federal judges in North Carolina to order the ballot boxes impounded.

Senator Watson signed it. He also, after getting their permission, affixed the names of Senators Moses and Bulkley. Then the petition was turned over to James S. Duncan, chairman of the Republican State committee in North Carolina, who submitted it to the three Federal judges.

Two Judges Issue Order.

Yesterday it was announced that two of the judges had granted the petition and directed deputy marshals to seize the ballot boxes and hold them for the Senate. The third judge—I. M. Meekins—announced he would give Senator Bailey, his classmate in college, ten days in which to show cause why he, too, should not grant the petition.

For a while it looked like everything would be all right. And then, yesterday, that defiant spirit of old North Carolina asserted itself.

Dennis G. Brummitt, the attorney general for the State, acting on the orders of Gov. Gardner, telegraphed to the three judges and protested against the orders that had been issued for impounding the ballot boxes.

Attorney General Brummitt contended thta the Senate subcommittee had exceeded its authority when it asked the courts to seize the ballot

CAPITAL HEADS FIRM ON SANATORIUM SITE

Doctors' Protest Receives Scant Encouragement From Commissioners.

Little encouragement was given by the District Commissioners yesterday to the District Medical Society committee which presented a copy of resolutions objecting against the proposed location of the Children's Tuberculosis Sanatorium at the site on Defense highway, 14 miles from the Capital.

The committee, comprising Drs. H. C. MacAtee, H. H. Kerr and Oscar B. Hunter, was told that the site had been bought nine months ago for $57,000 after more than 100 tracts were examined, and that the complaint appeared to be somewhat tardy. Nevertheless the Commissioners took the protest under advisement.

A communication from the directors of the Washington Tuberculosis Association, which approved the sanatorium site, also was read to the Commissioners. The letter, signed by Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president, pointed out that the land was purchased on August 20, 1930, and that the medical society should have taken its action earlier.

Mrs. Grant recalled that two physicians were members of the special committee that selected the site and that the president of the Board of Commissioners is a physician. She also stated that medical opinion is divided on the best methods of treating tubercular children.

The medical society delegates contended that the site is difficult of access from the city, that it is on a railroad (the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis) which is in the hands of receivers and that consequently it will be difficult to obtain proper medical attention, particularly in surgical cases.

The doctors also declared that the location is subject to excessive humidity and heat. They asserted, moreover, that the $625,000 appropriation, which includes the purchase price of the site, is inadequate for construction of a sanatorium suitable to the needs of a growing community such as Washington.

Winchester, Va., May 5.—Radiating loveliness in gown and robe befitting the rank of a reigning monarch, and with scepter of royal power and justice in her hand, Miss Patricia Dacre Morton, Winchester, England, was crowned and acclaimed "Queen Shenandoah VIII" of the eighth annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, as 30,000 spectators cheered and shouted "Long live the queen" on the Handley High School campus today. The ceremony was patterned after the most ancient of English coronation ceremonies, with pomp and pageantry.

Second only in spirit and spontaneity to the ovation accorded the brunette English beauty, was the greeting extended Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, United States Navy flier and Winchester citizen, who came from Boston to place the jeweled crown of apple blossoms on the brow of Queen Shenandoah. The crown was borne on a small pillow of royal velvet by Miss Margaret Lewis Byrd, niece of the polar explorer.

Miss Morton was richly gowned in ivory satin and a cloth of gold train 21 feet long was borne by two train bearers. Appearance of the royal party was heralded by trumpeters of the Greenbrier Military School, Lewisburg, W. Va. A rythmic dance by Miss Georgia Conrad was followed by the Glee Club of Harrisonburg State Teachers College in rich cloth of gold vestments singing the festival song, "Hail to Our Queen," to music of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin."

The queen was preceded also by 35 princesses from 13 States in flounced costumes of yellow with green streamers tied to yellow picture hats, and they were followed by 100 cadets of the Staunton Military Academy in full dress uniform. With the queen as she ascended the porch steps in front of Handley High School were Admiral Byrd, the Rev. Dr. S. L. Flickinger, pastor of Centenary Reformed Church, as Bishop of Winchester; the Rev. Robert B. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, as dean of Winchester; Mayor F. A. Shryock, the crown bearer, Miss Byrd; the maids of honor, Misses Anne Tucker McGuire

RETURN OF LONG TON AS COAL UNIT LOOMS

Two Dealers Resume Old Standard and Others Indicate Desire.

The possibility loomed yesterday that Washington coal dealers may return to the long ton standard of measurement at least until next winter when the 2,000-pound unit proposal will be placed before Congress.

Two dealers announced yesterday they had resumed the 2,240-pound standard, and others have indicated their desire to do likewise so as to put an end to the controversy. The firms which resumed the sale of coal by the long ton are the American Ice Co. and the R. J. & M. C. Grace Co.

Representatives of various coal companies will confer today with William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, who has been assigned by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to the case. Mr. Roberts has been engaged for the past several days in preparing a suit to make a test case of the 2,000-pound unit sale.

Coal dealers have expressed surprise at the outcry of the public against their combined shift in measurement standards and have protested that their move was misunderstood. Some of them now believe it would be wiser to resume the long ton, in view of the difference of opinion, and leave the question for Congress to settle so long as it passed the District weights and measures law.

Inspectors from the office of George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights, measures and markets, have been gathering evidence since the District Commissioners instructed the corporation counsel to file a test suit.

The difference of opinion which prevails on the legality of the shift in measurement standards arises from the fact that the District law in

FRANCE PLANS NAVY INCREASE OF 50,000 TONS

Latest Program Includes Mystery Cruiser of 31-Knot Speed.

ITALIAN REDUCTION NEGOTIATIONS WAIT

$50,000,000 Project Will Be Given Tomorrow to Deputies.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press.)

Paris, May 5 (U.P.).—France will continue during the coming year to pile up her naval strength, adding nearly 50,000 tons, including her first postwar battle cruiser, to the rejuvenated navy she has been building since 1922.

Charles Dumont, minister of the navy, completed the 1931-32 building program and copies were distributed tonight to members of the navy committee of the Chamber of Deputies, to permit the project to be presented to the chamber on Thursday.

The project calls for the building of 48,533 tons at a cost of 1,293,000,000 francs ($50,427,000).

"Mystery" Cruiser Planned.

The chief unit of the program will be the most modern battle cruiser afloat, the first of two "mystery" treaty cruisers of 23,333 tons, on which French naval experts have been working for more than a year. It will be a fast, protected cruiser, capable of beating Germany's new supercruiser and the latest Italian models. The ship will have a speed of nearly 31 knots, will carry six 11-inch guns, will be electrically welded to increase its speed and will have special armor plate to make it almost torpedo-proof.

The remainder of the program comprises two light cruisers of 7,600 tons each, one gunboat for colonial defense of 2,000 tons, one transport of 2,000 tons and four convoy escorters of 1,500 tons each, or nine vessels in all.

This construction program is to be followed by a second program to be drafted in July and submitted to Parliament in October, in an effort to regain the time lost on new building during the London and Rome naval negotiations.

Thus, while the naval negotiations between France and Italy have not yet broken down and the naval race is not openly on, France will be in a position to cope with any situation that may arise. The new cruiser, too, is her answer to Germany's launching of her first "pocket" battleship of the Ersatz Preussen class at Keil on May 19.

Large Scale Production Asked.

The navy committee of the chamber was understood to be insistent that construction on a large scale be resumed as early as possible and might suggest that three cruisers of 10,000 tons each be substituted for the 23,333-ton supercruiser unless there is some assurance of reaching a building limitation agreement with Italy, and that they be followed by a line ship of more than 25,000 tons, carrying 340-millimeter guns instead of 305 millimeters.

The government's project divides the credits for the construction over four years through 1935, starting with

TARIFF AND WAR DEBTS TO CONTINUE, MELLON TELLS FOREIGN GROUP

Text of Mellon's Speech Urging Faith for Future

The text of the speech of Secretary Mellon yesterday at a luncheon for foreign bankers by the American Bankers Association follows:

I am glad to be here today and to have a part in welcoming the distinguished visitors who have come from other countries to be our guests on this occasion. I feel that you can be especially helpful at this time when America and all the world are seeking a solution for the problems which confront us. You represent a cross section of the world's business and financial interests and are particularly well equipped, by training and outlook, to make a study of the present situation.

As one who looks at the situation from the Government angle, but who also shares with you the business point of view, may I make one suggestion, and that is, do not lose sight of the fact that solutions which may seem to you ideal can not always be put into effect for reasons which I am sure are apparent to you. One is that in each country governments must deal primarily with the facts of their own case and are free to act only within the bounds imposed by national traditions, economic organization and the limited understanding that exists in every country of other peoples' problems and of the extent to which all of us are affected by conditions outside of our own borders.

The troubles which all of us face at this time can not be cured by any quick and easy method, or at some one else's expense, and it is well to face that fact. The world is passing through one of the most extensive depressions it has ever known. In practically all countries we have had falling prices, unemployment, decreased consumption, difficult problems of government finance and, in some countries, political revolutions. One must not underestimate the seriousness of the present situation. And yet we must not lose our sense of perspective, for we know that the present crisis is not unprecedented, but that, on the contrary, the world is going through one of those transition stages which come from time to time and entail drastic and far-reaching economic readjustments. Even while we meet here today, those readjustments are taking place the world over and will continue until a balance has again been restored.

The present crisis is more severe because it follows a war in which the whole world was involved. The sweeping readjustments, which were inevitable in a society that had witnessed revolutionary changes in technology,

Business Must Readjust Itself Without Wage Cuts, He Says.

COMMERCE CHAMBER HEARS SILVER FIGHT

Indian Hits Britain's Policy; Barnes Airs Duties Ideas; Traylor Is Caustic.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon yesterday carried forward the line of the administration's defense against the efforts of foreign delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce to focus public attention on cancellation of war debts and the downward revision of the American tariff law as the two things most needed to bring about recovery from business depression.

President Hoover, addressing the opening session of the chamber on Monday, shocked delegates with his forceful declaration that Europe should first relieve itself of the burden of its enormous expenditures for armament, which amounts to a total unprecedented in peace time.

Secretary Mellon yesterday, in effect, told foreign bankers attending the chamber meeting that business must readjust itself without reducing wages; that there is to be no cancellation of war debts nor any general lowering of the American tariff.

Speaks at Bankers' Luncheon.

Mr. Mellon's address was delivered at a luncheon given in the Willard Hotel in honor of the visiting bankers by the American Bankers Association.

Meanwhile, in the meetings of the International Chamber in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, leaders of foreign industry were advancing the question of cancellation or revision of war debts, the necessity for less tariff restriction on the flow of commodities, and stressing the imperativeness of international economic cooperation.

"Under the Young plan and the coordinating influence of the Bank of International Settlements," Secretary Mellon told the bankers, "confidence has been established in the willingness and the ability of Europe to honor its obligations, whether these be debts arising out of the war or out of commercial undertakings started in the postwar period.

"The trade of the world must settle into new channels and will increase in volume, notwithstanding tariffs and other barriers."

Must Uphold Standards.

The standard of living in America, he said, "must be maintained at all costs; and certainly the present is no time to undertake drastic and doubtful experiments which may even conceivably result in breaking down the standard of living to which we have become accustomed."

Mr. Mellon declared that every nation must give careful consideration and justice to the rights of others. He concluded his speech with the statement:

"I have no means of knowing when or how we shall emerge from the valley in which we are now traveling. But I do know that, as in the past, the day will come when we shall find ourselves on a more solid economic foundation and the onward march of progress will be resumed."

His declaration against reduction in wages, however, was coupled with a warning that the period of depression must not be too long drawn out and there must be savings through increased efficiency of labor.

Reduce Costs, Maintain Wages.

"A balanced condition must be restored," he said. "This may be done without a general reduction in wages, provided the period of readjustment is not too long drawn out and on condition, also, that we reduce costs by yet greater efficiency in labor, in management, and in distribution."

Sir Alan Anderson, director of the Bank of England; Albert Pirelli, of Italy, regarded by many as spokesman for Mussolini, and Dr. Edward Hamm, former German Minister, brought the question of cancellation of debts before the chamber.

"It is certain," Mr. Pirelli said in the course of his address, "that in Europe interallied debts have a depressing effect which goes far beyond the amounts involved, entail-

DEMOCRATS ELECT BALTIMORE MAYOR

Only One Republican Chosen for Council as Jackson Sweeps City.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 5.—Howard W. Jackson, Democrat, again was elected Mayor of Baltimore today by the greatest majority ever accorded a nominee for the office. With only twelve polling places out of 672 to be heard from his plurality over William G. Albrecht, Republican, was 62,272. Mr. Jackson was mayor from 1923 to 1927.

Conceding the election to Mr. Jackson, Mr. Albrecht at 8:30 o'clock tonight said: "Well, the best man wins. I guess I'm not a politician. I suppose I should go back to making books. I concede the election to Mr. Jackson and I wish him all the success in the world. I hope he will give the City of Baltimore a good administration. If at any time, I can be of service to him, I hope he will cal lon me."

E. Lester Muller, Democratic president of the city council-elect, led his party's ticket in plurality in the 660 precincts by 402 votes, 62,674 ahead of F. Stanley Porter, Republican.

R. Walter Graham, the Democratic candidate for comptroller and the incumbent, was 59,880 votes ahead of Isaac S. Field.

The Democrats also swept the entire city in the councilmanic contests. Besides Mr. Muller, Mr. Jackson will have the support of practically the entire city council. Of the eighteen members of the council elected today, seventeen are Democrats, Daniel Ellison, Republican incumbent, being the only member of his party to emerge victorious.

At present eight members of the city council are Republicans, two being Negroes. Nine Republicans were

VILLA ROMA PERMIT ISSUANCE IS FOUGHT

Citizens' Protest Causes County Commissioners to Delay Action.

Following protests by residents of the Rockville Pike, the Montgomery County commissioners yesterday postponed action on the application of the Villa Roma, a night club, for a license to operate. Two other petitions for amusement licenses were granted.

Arguments for and against the granting of the permit were heard by the commissioners, who decided to postpone action for a week. Residents opposing the permit declared they had been kept awake by boisterous parties from the restaurant, which is on the Rockville pike.

A resolution from the Rockville Pike Citizens Association, which alleged that "Loud and boisterous conduct of many patrons of the Villa Roma between the hours of midnight and 4 o'clock in the morning, especially during the summer months, has disturbed neighbors, has particularly annoyed and disturbed patients at the Waverly Sanitarium, causing some of them to leave, and placed in jeopardy the valuable investment of the sanitarium."

Mrs. R. Maude Hodgkins, proprietor of the sanitarium, declared her patients were "exceedingly disturbed" by noises from the Villa Roma.

Thomas G. Wall, jr., declared that he and other residents objected to community singing after midnight and said that he believed the establishment could be regulated so that residents would not be disturbed after a reasonable hour. A large delegation appeared from the Rockville Pike Citizens Association.

Frank Abbo, proprietor of Villa Roma, declared he had always operated a respectable establishment and that a high type of patrons visited his place, among them many prominent members of professional and

Clara Bow, Taken Ill, Replaced in New Film

Actress Is in Sanitarium, Nerves Shattered; Rest Ordered.

Hollywood, Calif., May 5 (A.P.).—Clara Bow, ill in a Glendale sanitarium, today for the second time this year was replaced by a film newcomer in a picture in which she was to star.

Two physicians issued a statement that the red-headed Clara's nerves were shattered. They insisted she take a long rest and said it would be dangerous for her to continue working.

Paramount-Publix Corporation officials, to whom Miss Bow is under contract, said her picture was about to go into production, rehearsals being virtually completed, and a substitution was a necessary economy.

Petite Peggy Shannon, red-headed like Clara, fresh from the New York stage, was chosen to carry on—just as Sylvia Sidney, another recruit from the stage, was asked to carry on when Clara became ill during the Daisy de Boe trial. Miss Sidney now is a star.

The youthful Miss Shannon will be costarred with Richard Arlen in "The Secret Call," which was to have been billed as a Bow picture.

"But just as they did when Miss Sidney was thrown into the breach, studio officials denied again today the rumor which arose anew with the latest substitution that Clara was "through in pictures."

Miss Bow was sleeping soundly in her bed at the sanitarium when a newspaperman was allowed to look in late today. Studio officials said she became ill Sunday.

The last few months have been hectic ones for Miss Bow. There was the gambling episode at Calneva, in Nevada near Lake Tahoe, in which she was reported by the game table keepers to have stopped payment on several checks. Then came the Daisy de Boe case in which her erstwhile secretary was convicted of grand theft after a sensational trial in which much was said about Clara's life.

After this came the arrest of a tabloid publisher of Los Angeles on charges of sending obscene matter through the mails in connection with what his publication purported to be the love life of the actress.

Miss Bow's contract with Paramount extends to the latter part of this year.

Man Accused by Dying Girl Denies Burning 4 of Family

Coloradan, Held for Questoning, Scouts Story Told Police by Wife Who, With Three Children, Lost Life From Burns.

Greeley, Colo., May 5 (A.P.).—James V. Foster, a 49-year-old salesman, was held in jail for questioning tonight as authorities continued investigation of an incendiary fire which early today took the lives of his wife and three children. Foster was accused of the crime by the only survivor of the fire, his 11-year-old daughter, Mildred, who died late this afternoon, and the mother, Mrs. Myrtle Rogers, 40, who gasped to police on a hospital bed before she died:

"He threatened to do it; he burned us up."

The girl told Seacil Roberts, chief of police:

"Daddy did it. He woke us up, threw gasoline in our faces and lighted a match to the room."

Darline, the 19-month-old daughter of the Fosters, was burned to ashes. Geraldine, aged 8, and Mildred died in a hospital.

Foster, arrested a few miles from Ault, Colo., denied any part in the fire. He told officers his wife had started the fire and claimed she had been acting strangely. Later Foster said he did not want to say his wife had lied about him.

"She made a mistake in saying I am to blame. I am innocent. I bought the gasoline last night, but Myrtle asked me to. She wanted it to clean clothes. She had been threatening to end it all and sometimes I would drive 50 to 75 miles to get home at night, fearing something was going to happen."

Mrs. Carl Anderson, a sister of Mrs. Foster, said Foster had been acting queerly. She said she ascribed his depression to the difficulty he had in providing for his family.

Funeral services for Mrs. Foster and her three children will be held tomorrow.

J. A. Weaver, Weld County coroner, impaneled a jury today to view the bodies. No time has been set for an inquest.

City's Dandelions Gathered For Wine, Park Aids Say

Officials Welcome Taking of Yellow Flowers, But Deplore Pilfering That Spoils Pansy Beds and Other Property; Offenders to Be Punished.

If all the dandelions in public parks throughout the Capital were placed end to end, they might circle the globe; but if all of them were squeezed dry in a wine press—well, figure it out for yourself.

Hundreds of Washingtonians are doing just that, too, according to Frank T. Gartside, superintendent of public parks, and the officials, he says, don't give a rap. In fact, they're glad to get rid of the little yellow plants that pop up every spring to ruin good patches of grass.

"No one needs a permit to help himself to the dandelions," Mr. Gartside said. "The more that are taken away, the better we like it."

This same liberalism does not hold good, though, for other plants in the parks. Yesterday Mr. Gartside discovered that vandals had tramped over the huge bed of 35,000 pansy plants near the inlet bridge in Potomac Park and had uprooted a dozen or more of the choicest flowers from the center of the bed.

Consequently, the general appearance of the collection is practically ruined for the season, Mr. Gartside said. This, he recalled, is only one example of the numerous instances of pilfering that costs the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks $75,000 yearly.

Capt. Raymond C. Montgomery, superintendent of park police, said yesterday that more patrolmen will be on the lookout now for vandalism since the peak of the park traffic has passed. While the park police do not prosecute hundreds of minor cases, where the offender is very young or merely thoughtless, they do arrest persons who deliberately damage or steal park property.

The courts have cooperated with the park police in this respect, Capt. Montgomery said, and numerous offenders have been punished.

ing economic as well as psychological reactions."

"Would it not be better," Sir Alan asked, "to cancel international debts of political origin? Great Britain, as the largest war creditor, canceled a great surplus of debts owing to her and the debtor nations would vote for an extension of this policy, but the creditor finds it hard to accept as impartial the advice of the debtor to forgive him what he owes."

"In the first place, capital has to be fed into those channels where the purchasing power is lowest, and in the second place, the creditors must be prepared to accept either goods or services in return for these loans," Dr. Hamm said. "This applies to reparations as well as to the commercial situation in general. You can not expect water to flow upstream."

A fight over the question of silver, precipitated by Tsuyee Pei, president of the Bank of China, and carried vigorously forward by S. R. Bomanji, head of the delegation representing India, brought to an inconclusive finish the most important of the group meetings into which the chamber resolved itself in the afternoon.

Indian Hits British Policies.

Mr. Bomanji launched an attack on British government policies and pleaded with the chamber to help his helpless countrymen against England's silver policy. He spoke in English extemporaneously and was accorded something of an ovation when he left the platform, although Lucius R. Eastman, of New York, member of the economic committee of the League of Nations, frowned disapprovingly and banged with his gavel.

Russia was to have been discussed at this group meeting, but the discussion of silver lasted until a few minutes of 5 o'clock, at which time delegates were to attend a reception in their honor by Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson, and Mr. Eastman proposed that the meeting adjourn and try to rearrange the program to permit another meeting, but there are many crossinterests at work, both on Russia and on silver, and it is expected that it will be found impossible to make the necessary rearrangement of the program.

Barnes Against Reopening Tariff.

Earlier in the day the chamber, in plenary session, heard Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declare that "it would be most unfortunate to reopen the tariff in the next session of Congress."

Mr. Barnes' statement was made to correct published reports of his statements on tariff revision at the annual convention of the United States Chamber in Atlantic City last week. Mr. Barnes is a close friend of President Hoover and published reports of his Atlantic City speech brought sharp criticism from Republican leaders.

"Gradual adjustments, either up or down, as may be necessary, through the agency of the Tariff Commission do not have the unsettling effects that accompany a general overhauling by Congress," Mr. Barnes said. The United States Chamber, he said, "wants all tariff adjustments made with due regard for our foreign trade. American business hopes that the administration of our tariff laws by the Tariff Commission will go a long way toward permanently taking the tariff out of politics."

Traylor Indicts Leaders.

That all of the American business leaders attending the international chamber meeting, however, are not in thorough approval of what the administration has done was brought sharply to public attention by Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago, a member of the organization committee for the Bank for International Settlements. Mr. Traylor's speech was not a direct attack on the administration—he never used that word—but he gave a most severe indictment of business, industrial, financial and government leaders for their failure to act to head off the business collapse.

"Ambition, cupidity and greed have dictated policies, and trouble has been the result," Mr. Traylor said. The dawn of the present trouble was in 1914 when the war began. There was no lack of knowledge of its consequences, but there was a lack of courage to face the facts and seek to maintain peace, and "the world then began its march to the tragedy of 1930-31.

"For it is a tragedy when, in a world of plenty, there should be so much poverty, and when in a Nation which boasts of its riches, 5,000,000 or more people willing to work should be unable to find employment. Why should there be in this land of plenty, with unlimited facilities for production, abundant harvests and a surfeit of credit, millions of hungry and unemployed? It is not the fault of those who would work but can find no work to do. They have little or no choice in shaping their course and, while it is true that society owes no one a living, society does owe every one an opportunity to earn a living. In that obligation we have failed.

"Business leadership, had it read the barometer properly, should have noted the storm that was gathering and trimmed sail accordingly, but ambition for place, power and profit blinded leadership to the obvious dangers ahead.

and Margaret Richards, and the train bearers, Harry Fowle and William Gaylord.

It was a ceremony full of color, beauty and solemnity and highly ritualistic, and adaptation of the rite employed when King Etheired was invested with badges and symbols of royal rule in the ancient English capital at Winchester a great many years ago. It was prepared by the Rev. Dr. Flickinger, an authority on high church forms and rituals.

It was perfect weather and an ideal setting for such a ceremony on the esplanade directly in front of Handley High School, and with an additional background of old trees across a sloping ridge in the rear. To the east lay the majestic Blue Ridge. Crowds swarmed over the 72-acre Handley School campus two hours before the coronation ceremonies and listened to band concerts and contests.

Byrd Escorts Queen.

The ceremony over, Queen Shenandoah was escorted by Admiral Byrd amid wild acclaim and applause to a throne of gold on the grounds, where with her entire court and military guard grouped about her she watched the presentation of the gorgeous pageant, "The Fruit of the Gods," depicting history of the apple industry, by a thousand students of local schools, symbolically costumed, with musical score by the Handley High School Orchestra. The coronation ceremony and pageant were broadcast by the Columbia and National systems.

Tonight the queen paid a visit to the annual apple blossom festival ball with members of her court, held at the George Washington Hotel. Tomorrow night the queen's royal ball will be held at the Shenandoah Valley Academy Gymnasium, when she will dance with the gallants of Virginia.

To the music of high school, military academy and municipal bands, and cheered by their parents and countless friends, the annual parade of 5,000 school children, called "The Trail of the Blossoms," was held in the forenoon. The procession was divided into half a dozen divisions, each headed by a band. Girls were costumed in paper crepe dresses of pastel shades, while boys wore white. Splashes of color greeted the eyes of 40,000 spectators as school children, from kindergarten tots to high school seniors, trooped along streets gaily decorated with American and British flags and bunting. Queen Shenandoah, not yet invested with royal power, joined a party of friends and viewed the parade from a porch at the home of Mrs. Lewis H. Hyde.

Winners of Prizes.

Prize winners in the school parade were:

High schools—First, Strasburg High School, $50; second, Gore High School, $25; honorable mention, Wardensville High School.

Elementary schools—First, Miller School, $50; second, Wardensville Elementary School, $25; honorable mention, Virginia Avenue School, Winchester.

Graded schools (two teachers)—First, Armel School, $50; second, Capon Springs School, $25.

Graded schools (one teacher)—First, Gravel Springs School, $40; second, Cross Junction School, $20; honorable mention, Valley School. Prizes of $100 each were awarded to bands of Handley High School, Winchester, and Staunton Military Academy, Staunton, Va., the former in the high school class and the latter in the military classification.

Firemen of Winchester and nearby Virginia and West Virginia cities and towns held an old-time torchlight parade tonight. Most of the companies were in full uniform, while others were in fantastic costumes. Half a dozen bands were sprinkled through the procession, and each fireman was supplied with red flares.

A festive spirit gripped the battle-scarred war town of Winchester as crowds milled about the business streets, roped off and brilliantly illuminated for their pleasure. Meanwhile hotels and boarding houses were filled to capacity and hundreds of private homes were opened to overflows for the second and concluding celebration tomorrow. Thousands unable to get accommodations here had motored to cities and towns between Washington and the central Shenandoah Valley to return on the morrow to see Queen Shenandoah ride in state at the head of a five-mile long triumphal parade, to be reviewed by her and her court from royal boxes at the Winchester Fair Grounds.

Suggestions of Traylor Interest Wall Street

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Suggestions of Melvin E. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, for further restrictions on stock transactions, were received with interest in Wall Street today.

While officials of the Stock Exchange and prominent brokers declined to comment publicly, some perplexity was expressed regarding Mr. Traylor's condemnation of floor trading, in his address before the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington.

Floor traders are members of the exchange who trade for their own personal accounts. Professional traders generally have been accused of manipulating prices and have come in for considerable criticism from time to time, but floor traders alone have been less frequently singled out.

The Stock Exchange attempts to prevent wash sales, or the matching or buying and selling orders by professional groups to give the market an active appearance, although no funds change hands. Officials have acknowledged, however, that wash sales are difficult to detect.

would have come gradually and less painfully under normal peace-time processes. Unfortunately, they were first delayed by the war and then precipitated suddenly on a world already thrown out of balance by the vast and violent dislocations which the war left behind. The economic depression that followed is, in part, the price we pay for war and must be reckoned apparently as a seemingly unavoidable stage in the sequence of events.

Recent economic history seems to confirm this. Those of us who lived through the crisis of 1873 remember how both Europe and America were affected by conditions which followed the too rapid expansion and industrial development after the Civil War in this country and the Franco-Prussian war in Europe. I have lived through several crises since that time and the conclusion I have come to is that they have been caused, either directly or remotely, by serious dislocations which were due, as a rule, to wars and their aftermaths.

Readjustment Follows Wars.

Wars invariably cause waste. They also cause monetary inflation and rise in prices, followed by a period of disorderly industrial activity and too rapid and ill-balanced expansion in all directions, resulting eventually in the production of goods and services out of line with the world's contemporary capacity to absorb. Eventually a readjustment must take place. Prices must be revised, and costs of production and output must be brought down to a point where the demand will again be stimulated and goods will move into consumption. In short, a balanced condition must be restored; and this may be done without a general reduction in wages, provided the period of readjustment is not too long drawn out and on condition also that we reduce costs by yet greater efficiency in labor, in management, and in distribution.

In this country there has been a concerted and determined effort on the part of both Government and business not only to prevent any reduction in wages but to keep the maximum number of men employed and thereby to increase consumption. Every man that can be kept at work or put back into employment adds to the Nation's buying power and so stimulates further production. Progress can be achieved only by a great onward movement made up of a vast number of individual efforts and not by any single action that governments or groups of men can take.

I do not believe in any quick or spectacular remedies for the ills from which the world is suffering, nor do I share the belief that there is anything fundamentally wrong with the social system under which we have achieved in this and other industrialized countries a degree of economic well-being unprecedented in the history of the world.

Capitalism Still in Infancy.

Capitalism or whatever name may be applied to the system which has been evolved in adapting individual initiative to the machine age, has defects, of course, and may be, as has been suggested, still in its infancy. But there is no disputing the fact that it has produced an abundance of food and clothing and all the necessities of life, so that our problem is not one involving basic inability to produce the goods needed to satisfy human wants. That, in itself, is a fact of the greatest importance, for there was a time when crop failures, floods and droughts brought on a serious shortage and even famines in Europe and America, just as they do now almost periodically in China, India, and other areas in which production and distribution are not so well organized. Among Western Nations we know that we can cope with such calamities, for industry and human ingenuity have combined to provide ever more liberally the goods and services which we need.

We still have much to learn in the maintenance of production on an even keel and the achievement of a process of orderly and broad distribution of products and services. These defects in the present system we shall overcome by degrees, as we find some way to achieve greater equilibrium between production and consumption and a better distribution of labor, so that we shall not always have the painful spectacle of men willing to work, but unable to find a market for the only commodity which they can exchange for the food and clothing which they need and which the world can produce in such abundance. These are largely problems of distribution and consumption, and I am confident they will be solved in time, as were those earlier problems of industrialism when man first began to be displaced by the machine.

Here in America our problems seem to us more acute perhaps than they really are because they exist as the result of a vast, and at the same time fairly recent, industrial development which has made necessary a change in methods and outlook to which we have not yet had time to become accustomed. We shall succeed in time in working out our economic salvation in accordance with the special needs of our own people and the social and industrial system which has been built up. But it will be done in the future, as in the past, by individual initiative and not by surrendering the management of business and industry to the Government or to any board or group of men temporarily invested with overhead authority. Conditions today are neither so critical nor so unprecedented as to justify a lack of faith in our capacity to deal with them in our accustomed way.

Seek Mastery of Economic Machine.

Since the war America has enjoyed a decade of industrial and economic progress unequaled in the Nation's history. Our present experience indicates that the machine can not be made to function at full speed all the time. So closely knit is the modern industrial world that when a lack of balance develops there is a general slowing up until a readjustment has been effected and the balance restored. Some day perhaps we shall have mastered our economic machine so as to have it under better control.

But until that day comes it is well to remember that these temporary setbacks do not obliterate the progress made during the forward movements and that, when the upward trend is resumed again, we shall start not from the old level, but from the new.

It would be difficult to believe that the progress made in this country in the last ten years will not be consolidated and carried forward. All the basic factors that made it possible are still here. Many of these same factors exist also in Europe; and, while the world has passed through a difficult period in the last eighteen months, we must not forget that the difficulties encountered were less formidable than those confronted and surmounted in the early postwar period. Then the problems left by the war had not been settled, banking and currency systems were in a chaotic state, debts and reparations were a source of great uncertainty, paralyzing action in every direction. Since that time Europe has shown recuperative powers that are amazing. There has been a steady march of reconstruction, of sound currency systems estbalished, with close cooperation between central banks and with the Federal Reserve system in this country. Under the Young plan and the coordinating influence of the bank of international settlements, confidence has been established in the willingness and the ability of Europe to honor its obligations, whether these be debts arising out of the war or out of commercial undertakings started in the postwar period.

New Trade Channels Needed.

There is much that still remains to be done. The trade of the world must settle into new channels and will increase in volume, notwithstanding tariffs and other barriers. We have all come to a realization of the fact that, if world trade is to be built up, there must be give and take among nations. But it must be remembered that the all-important factor is purchasing power; and purchasing power, insofar as America is concerned, is dependent to a great extent on the standard of living which obtains in this country. That standard of living must be maintained at all costs; and certainly the present is no time to undertake drastic and doubtful experiments which may even conceivably result in breaking down the standard of living to which we have become accustomed. What we must strive for is to improve the standard both here and in other countries as conditions warrant. In fact, the ultimate solution of the world's difficulties would seem to lie in the possibility of building up a higher standard, especially in the great and as yet undeveloped consumer areas, and in creating there and throughout the world a steadily increasing demand for the goods and services which Europe and America are prepared to supply.

No one should be discouraged about the ultimate outcome. We are, as I said at the beginning, passing through a transition period, and such periods are always difficult to understand because we are too close to events to see the direction in which they are moving or to discern the outline of developments which will characterize the new era.

RESOLUTION INSISTS BISHOP CANNON QUIT

Sparta, Ga., Church Joins in Plea for Resignation and Asks Probe.

Sparta, Ga., May 5 (A.P.).—The Sparta Methodist Episcopal Church South has adopted resolutions asking for the resignation of Bishop James Cannon, jr., and calling upon Bishop W. N. Ainsworth to provide for another investigation of charges against Bishop Cannon.

The resolutions were offered by Dr. Rembert G. Smith, pastor of the church. Dr. Smith, in the 1928 presidential campaign, brought charges of political activity against Bishop Cannon and other bishops of the Methodist Church.

Text of Resolutions.

The resolutions, adopted at the quarterly conference of the local church Sunday, read in part as follows:

"Whereas certain charges were made recently against Bishop James Cannon, jr., by Drs. F. J. Prettyman, C. J. Harrell, I. P. Martin, J. T. Mastin, same having been placed in the hands of Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, at that time chairman of the college of bishops;

"And whereas, Bishop Ainsworth, acting under paragraph 261 of the discipline of 1930 did call together in Washington, D. C., twelve traveling elders to be a committee of investigation of these charges, which committee declared no trial necessary;

"And whereas, the press reported that Bishop Cannon was permitted to appear and did appear before the committee of investigation;

Protest Against Partiality.

"And whereas, the law of the church as to the investigation of charges against a bishop as set forth in paragraph 261 of the discipline of 1930, does not permit the appearance of an accused bishop before a committee of investigation;

"Be it resolved by this quarterly conference:

"First, that we protest against the partiality shown to Bishop Cannon in this matter and call upon Bishop Ainsworth to provide for another investigation of these charges against Bishop Cannon which shall be laid down in the discipline in paragraph 261.

"Second, that we join with the quarterly conference of the Newman, Ga., church and the group of Virginia laymen in requesting Bishop Cannon to resign his office as bishop in our church as we are convinced that his further tenure of this office will seriously lower the prestige and hinder the progress of the Methodist Episcopal Church South."

MANAGER EXPLAINS BRIDGE PLAY PLANS

Needham Urges Participants to Be on Hand Promptly; Will Give Talk.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS.

Thursday, May 14, 2 p. m.—Pair contests, advanced and intermediate classes, both contract and auction.

Thursday, May 14, 8 p. m.—Auction team matches, advanced and intermediate classes.

Friday, May 15, 2 p. m.—Pair contests (final) advanced and intermediate classes, both contract and auction.

Friday, May 15, 8 p. m.—Contract team matches, advanced and intermediate classes.

Saturday, May 16, 2 p. m.—Auction team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

Saturday, May 16, 8 p. m.—Contract team matches (final) advanced and intermediate classes.

The place—The New Shoreham Hotel.

In response to requests from numerous entrants in the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, R. E. Needham, who has been selected to manage the competition, has prepared a brief statement outlining the mechanics of the play.

The first essential, Mr. Needham points out, is that all players should be on hand at 2 o'clock for the afternoon session and at 8 o'clock for the evening sessions, as a short talk on the methods of the play will precede each event.

As the players arrive at the New Shoreham, where the tournament is to be held, each pair or team will be given an entry blank on which will be shown the letter designating the section and the number of the table at which such pair or team is to start. This number will become the official number of the pair or team, and must appear on the score cards covering all hands that they play. As soon as they receive their entry blanks the players will go immediately to the proper tables and remain there until the play starts. The names of players are to be entered on the blanks.

Duplicate Boards at Tables.

One or more duplicate boards will be found at each table, the exact number depending upon the size of the section. The cards, which are to be provided by the United States Playing Card Co., of Cincinnati, will be shuffled and dealt by any player at the table, and the four hands placed in the pockets of the boards. After this there will be no more dealing; if a hand is passed by all players the score will be zero. Before any player takes his cards from the pockets, it should be ascertained that the arrow on the board is pointing north. Immediately after taking the hand from the pocket, the player should count it to see that it contains exactly thirteen cards. The player designated on the board as dealer will open the bidding and proceed as usual. When the play starts each player places his cards directly in front of himself, and they are not gathered into tricks.

Instead of playing the cards in the dummy hand, the declarer calls the cards and the dummy plays them. When four cards have been played to a trick, each player, including the dummy, turns his card face down in front of himself, with the long way of the card pointing toward the side winning the trick. When the play is finished each player again counts his cards and returns them to the pocket from which they were taken.

North to Keep Score.

It is the duty of the North player at each table to keep the score, and of the East player to check and O. K. the same. Separate score cards will be used for each hand. On the score card the North player will enter the section letter, the two pair numbers and the number of the board played, before he takes his hand from the pocket of the board. As soon as the bidding is over, and before the play of the hand starts, he should record the declaration, as four hearts, three no trump, or otherwise, as the case may be. When the play is completed the final net score is entered at the foot of the card.

Each hand is a unit and no scores are carried from one hand to help make a game on the next. For game made in one hand at auction the bonus is 125 points. At contract the bonus for game bid and made is 300 when not vulnerabe, and 500 when vulnerable. The state of vulnerability is shown on the boards.

The only difference from the rubber game is, in contract the undoubled overtricks are scored at the regular trick value, 20, 30 or 35, instead of 50. Thus, if a pair bids three hearts and makes four, they would score only a total of 120 instead of 140. All penalties for undertricks and slam bonuses at both auction and contract are the same as at rubber bridge.

AD CONTEST PERIOD ENDS AT NOON TODAY

Amateurs Given New Ideas That May Win Them Valuable Prizes.

Noon today is the deadline for the combined third and fourth weeks ad writing period of The Post-Zain contest.

Here are a few more suggestions about some of the 35 participating concerns for which you are urged to write ads. If you have already written about these concerns write more ads. The more you write, the better your chances are of winning.

L. P. Steuart & Bro.

In writing about this concern, let your ads tell the story of their complete heating service and their fluid heat oil burners. Explain that fluid heat burns the low-priced domestic fuel oils. It introduces a "controlled flame" and eliminates wasted fuels. It provides absolute economy and is extremely quiet while operating. Remember the best ad about the fluid heat oil burner during the entire contest is going to win that $375 oil burner that will be installed free.

Write about their superior anthracite coal. Tell about its fine qualities. Read the box of special prizes and see what the best ad written about this coal during the entire contest will receive.

Arthur Jordan Piano Co.

In writing about this concern, incorporate in your ads their reputation of selling only the finest in musical instruments for over twenty years. Feature the Chickering piano and that famous Brunswick Radio. Jordans represent this radio which is a product of Warner Bros., of picture fame. These radios, in beautiful cabinets, may be found on their first and second floors. Brunswick Radio and panatrope with radio are designed by Brunswick engineers in Brunswick laboratories, built from Brunswick material in Brunswick factories by Brunswick craftsmen and marketed exclusively by Brunswick dealers. Don't forget to tell about Jordan's budget system.

Edmonston Shoe Co.

In writing about this old-established Washington institution, tell about their expert shoe fitters. This concern sells only the best in shoes, "Physical Culture shoes" for women and the "Stacy Adams" shoe for men. Both of these makes are nationally known for their style, yet at the same time they are made to conform with the human foot.

Edmonston & Co. also sell Foot Form shoes for the children. The shoes for boys and girls also reflect the outstanding styles and the comfort features which are impossible to detect.

Underwood & Underwood.

The best advertisement for Underwood & Underwood has yet to be written. Some one will take for his theme the exquisite photographs they make of children. And they should be exquisite, because of their reputation for 50 years, but they exclusively have a double camera that permits natural unposed pictures. Now, think of the kind of picture you want most of your baby and describe it simply but in lovely terms, and tell how Underwood would make it for you. Such an advertisement should be outstandingly good. Don't forget that their prices are no higher.

Fairfax Farms Dairies.

Their "hi-test" rich Jersey milk and creams give you excellent subjects for ads about this concern. That health-giving milk and cream sold by this Washington owned and operated dairy is obtainable only at this dairy and not at stores. Tell about that delicious refreshing milk chocolate which every one who has written an ad about this concern will receive. Next week to the writer of the five best ads about this concern Fairfax Farms Dairies will deliver free each day for one week, one quart of their rich hi-test Jersey milk. For your shortcakes and pastries try this rich Jersey cream.

In writing your ads about Wilkins Coffee be sure you tell about its quality, freshness and price. Wilkins combines true coffee enjoyment with worthwhile economy, which makes it just wonderful.

National Pale Dry Ginger Ale offers a world of ideas to embody in ads about this stimulating deliciously different drink.

"SERVICE" IS AD TIP

"Forty Years of Satisfactory Service." You Zain ad writers don't need any better tip than that to write a prize-winning ad about Thomas E. Clark, Inc., the home of Standard plumbing fixtures. The present home of the company at 3407 Connecticut avenue northwest, pictured above, is another inspiration for the ad writers. Thomas E. Clark, Inc., was formerly located at 3831 Kansas avenue northwest.

Memorial Required Time To Build, Same as With Ads

Lincoln Never Gave Up, Despite Many Hardships; Post-Zain Contestants Will Never Win Prizes by Quitting or Saying Contest Is Hard.

When you stood in front of the Lincoln Memorial and looked at that massive, beautiful building did you realize that it took hours and hours of work to accomplish the structure and that before a stone was laid the architect submitted the plans. Sometime gaze through the massive stone pillars and see the Emancipator and stop and realize what hardships he had and how he suffered, working when things seemed hopeless, never giving up. He kept on trying, saying to himself, "It can be done," when everything seemed against him.

You, too, must keep on trying if you haven't won that $100 grand prize. There still is a chance for you to get that $1,000 grand prize by submitting more ads, because each you write becomes easier and easier and the last one may be just the one the judges will select as one of the grand prize winners for the third and fourth weeks of The Post-Zain contest.

Remember how Sergt. Kuster wrote the prize-winning ad on the Associated Bakery Unions for the second week. We asked the sergeant how he did it. He said: "I took all day one Sunday and wrote on one concern in the contest. It looked like I never would get that prize-winning idea after tearing up ad after ad, and then I had it. The last ad was the one the judges selected. Believe it or not, it was some job, but we learn in the Army to keep on pushing and pushing and we know when things seem darkest we are bound to go over the top and win, and we did."

Your ideas may seem terrible to you on paper, but one of those ideas might just be the right one, so slip the ideas in an envelope, mail to us, let the judges decide, not yourself. One of them may be a prize-winning ad. There are lots of prizes for every one and the last minute may be just the minute for you to get in your ad. If you can't mail in time, bring them over to The Post Building yourself. If we receive them before noon today they will go in on the third and fourth weeks' judging. It requires many men to build massive structures, monuments and skyscrapers. Each and every new building they construct seems more massive and impressive. So it should be with you. Each ad you write should have more meaning than the first.

Walker Sketches Woes to Thompson

Liverpool Lord Mayor and New York Executive Air Troubles.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Two men who know a lot about it got together today and talked over this business of being mayor.

"The Mayor of New York is only three-sixteenths of the government," said Mayor James J. Walker to Lord Mayor Edwin Thompson of Liverpool. There are times, however, when he is more than that. When visitors are received he is the whole show and when political investigators come to town the people are made to believe the mayor is the whole thing."

"In our country," the Liverpool dignitary, attired in black robes and a peruke, confided, "the lord mayor is not even a vulgar fraction. He is merely a figurehead, ungainly, and performs no useful purpose whatever."

Workmen's Circle Buys Camp Conoy

Recreation Center Taken Over at Edgewater by Capital Society.

Acquisition of Camp Conoy at Edgewater, Md., by Workmen's Circle, No. 92, of Washington, and its formal opening on May 30, was made public yesterday by the organization's attorney, Max Lewis.

The camp, consisting of ten acres, a bathing beach of 700 feet, tennis courts, a dancing pavilion, picnic grounds and eighteen buildings, was purchased from the Y. M. C. A. of Baltimore, which has owned it for eighteen years.

Although the camp will be operated primarily for member of the organization, Mr. Lewis said arrangements also may be made for accommodations by the public, beginning with a picnic on May 17 as a forerunner to the formal opening on Decoration Day.

GAITHERSBURG SUITS SCORE STREET WORK

Two Actions Seek to Halt Progress on Approaches to Railroad Span.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Two suits for temporary injunctions against further work on the streets approaching the new Gaithersburg overhead bridge over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks were filed in circuit court at Rockville yesterday by Attorney George H. Lamar, of Rockville.

One suit names Buell M. Gardner, of Gaithersburg, as plaintiff, and the other the Ramsdell Theater Co., of Gaithersburg, which operate th etown moving picture house. G. Clinton Uhl, Howard Bruce and John K. Shaw, members of the Maryland State Roads Commission; H. H. Willar, jr., chief engineer of the commission, and E. O. Hewett, assistant engineer in charge of the construction work, are named as defendants.

The suits seek to have the commission and its engineers and employees from continuing with the construction of the widening of Frederick avenue until the property involved has been acquired through condemnation proceedings and proper relief given to property owners.

In both suits the plaintiffs allege they are being materially damaged by the widening of the street, inasmuch as they had the use of a 4½-foot strip between the paving of the street and a 9-foot sidewalk, all of which were conducive to the benefit of their businesses. It is further alleged that the roadway is being raised a foot above the level of the grade of street level.

Both Mr. Gardner and the theater company allege the construction work is interfering with the conduct of their business and with the ingress and egress of customers. The theater company also alleges the destruction of a shade tree.

Judge Robert B. Peter yesterday issued a rule to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued against the State roads commission, returnable May 14 at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The American Red Cross relief committee, which has been functioning in Montgomery County for drought relief, will close all of its cases by the middle of May, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Mina Church Brann, chairman.

Merchants having disbursement order bills have been told to send their bills to Miss Dorothy Budd, Red Cross office, Rockville Firehouse, prior to May 15.

The Glenmont Center Citizens Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Glenmont School, according to an announcement by Richard C. Birney, president. A progress report of the committee on cooperation with the tree planting group of the Georfe Washington Bicentennial Commission is expected to be made.

Cooperation with other local organizations in the landscaping improvement of Glen Echo-Cabin John School was authorized for the committee on law, education and schools at a meeting of the Cabin John Park Citizens Association. Particular reference to securing the improvement of First street was made.

The association discussed at length the telephone service and directed the executive committee and delegates to the Montgomery County Civic Federation to take necessary steps in securing as favorable a schedule of rates for the Cabin John Park area as the central Bethesda area in the event of any change in the present service.

The association indorsed resolution opposing hunting with firearms in the Metropolitan area as proposed by the civic federation. W. B. Armstrong, chairman of the Boy Scout committee, reported on the work of the scouts and praised the cooperation given by the troop committee.

The association voted to adjourn until the first Tuesday in September. P. T. Hannen, vice president, presided.

NEW JUSTICE COURT IS URGED BY DENNY

Assistant State's Attorney General Advocates Change in Virginia.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU, 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Collins Denny, jr., assistant attorney general of Virginia, spoke before the Virginia Conference of Social Work yesterday at the second session held in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, next to the George Mason Hotel, as the number of delegates required a larger space than the private dining rooms of the hotel. His topic was "Relationship of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations and the Trial Justice Courts and the Future of the County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court in Virginia."

He stated that Virginia is badly in need of a single uniform law governing all counties. He declared that from his experience with the courts of the trial justice, as opposed to those of the justices of the peace, he heartily joined with the judicial council in its recommendation that establishment of such a court be made mandatory in every county. The justice of the peace, he said, is undergoing a steady and advisable limitation of his power and authority.

Mr. Denny said that from the recently created judicial council composed of eminent jurists and lawyers, men who are closely in touch with the success or failure of that which a few years ago was an experiment, has come the recommendation that all counties be supplied with the trial justice. This, he said, need cause no concern to the friend of the juvenile and domestic relations court, which, he said, is a blessing.

Francis H. Miller, field secretary of the National Probation Association, spoke on the State's function in development of probation and advocated a State-wide program of probation work with certain requirements set up. However, in order to do this, it will be necessary for the State to have an adequate probation law and a department charged with the responsibility of carrying out a State-wide program to include education, information of standards and having the right kind of people to aid in financial matters.

The delegates were entertained at luncheon at Ivakota Farms, a Florence Crittenton Mission, at Clifton, Fairfax County, where they were welcomed by Dr. Robert South Barnett, national president of the mission.

The afternoon was given over to institutes and in the evening Dean Justin Miller, of Duke University Law School, spoke on the relationship of law and social work.

The business session will reconvene at 9 o'clock this morning, followed by open discusison and institutes.

Fred C. Goodnow was elected president of the Rotary Club yesterday, to succeed Judge William S. Snow. He will assume office at the first meeting in July, the beginning of the club's fiscal year. Mr. Goodnow is a former president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce and was a vice president of the Rotary Club the past year.

Other officers chosen were Francis H. Fannon, vice president; Dr. Herbert Cross, secretary; Everett Swan, treasurer. They, with Dr. H. A. Latane and Julian Chauncey, will form the board of directors.

Dr. H. C. Scott, of the State Health Department, the principal speaker, was introduced by Judge Snow. Members of the club who will attend the fifty-sixth district meeting of the Rotary Club in Norfolk tomorrow, Friday and Saturday are Judge Snow, Everett Swan, Francis H. Fannon, Dr. Herbert Cross, R. H. Bogle, Vernon Slaughter, H. H. Martin, Dr. S. Nelson Gray and John W. Tulloch. Mrs. Francis H. Fannon and Mrs. Herbert Cross will accompany the party.

Alva Aerie, No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, has adopted a resolution urging the city council to consider electing a member to fill the vacancy existing in that body, from that part of the newly annexed territory that was formerly Potomac.

The Alexandria War Mothers will present a program of entertainment tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in the Virginia Public Service auditorium, in the nature of a silver tea, and expect to have the State president, Mrs. Edward T. Penwick, with them.

JACKSON IS ELECTED BALTIMORE'S MAYOR

chosen in the last councilmanic election, but one died some time ago.

The volume of the vote was especially surprising because the whole campaign had been marked by an apathetic attitude on the part of the voters of both parties. With a few exceptions, here appeared to be little organization work in behalf of either of the mayoralty candidates until the contest swung into the final week.

The candidates themselves did not begin to cross-fire in debating the issues until the last few days of their speaking tours of the city. Lack of enthusiasm was generally attributed to the fact that the election of Mr. Jackson was predicted weeks ago, even by persons prominent in the party which opposed him.

The attitude of indifference was the cause of much concern in the Democratic ranks. Not that the Democratic leaders did not believe the city-wide candidates would be carried into office by today's vote, no matter how light it might be, but they were apprehensive lest a lack of enthusiasm among the Democrats might result in the loss of councilmanic seats in several of the districts.

All of the meetings held during the last ten days by the Democrats were directed to this end, the speakers concentrating on the subject of getting the voters to the polls.

The $7,500,000 water loan ordinance submitted for ratification was carried by a majority today close to 48,000.

Totals, with only one precinct missing:

Jackson, 122,175; Albrecht, 57,089. Jackson's majority, 65,086.

Graham, 115,496; Field, 54,427; Muller, 115,968; Porter, 53,047.

Mr. Jackson's victory is his fifth success as a candidate for city-wide office and his sixth triumph at the polls. He emerged into public life in 1907, being elected from the old Seventh Ward to the city council. Three times he served as register of wills for Baltimore, being elected by successive majorities of 1,400, 14,000 and 21,000.

His election as mayor in the three-cornered Broening - Jackson - Preston contest in 1923 was by a majority of 24,205 over Mr. Bruening, who ran second in the race. In 1927 he was for a time a candidate again for the Democratic nomination, but withdrew in favor of William Curran.

PENFIELD'S ESTATE VALUED AT $487,000

Six $25,000 Trust Funds, as Well as One of $50,000, Are Established.

The will of Walter S. Penfield, who died April 11 at his home here, was filed for probate yesterday by the Washington Loan & Trust Co. which is named as executor of the estate. The papers show that Mr. Penfield, who was an internationally known lawyer, was possessed of no real estate, but that he had a personal estate valued at $487,445.82.

The will disclosed that Mr. Penfield had been married twice. His first wife is now Lucille Bacon Ong, of New York City, and in her custody, though legally adopted by the grandmother, Alice M. Bacon, is a child, Virginia Bacon.

Six $25,000 trust funds and one of $50,000 are established. The larger fund is for the benefit of Ollie C. Ham, secretary to Mr. Penfield. The secretary is also given $200 a month for one year after Mr. Penfield's death. Virginia Bacon is to get the income from one of the $25,000 trust funds until she is 25. Then she is to get the principal.

Others who are to get the trust fund incomes are Grace Stayt, of Kettle Falls, Wash.; Annette Hall, a cousin, also of Kettle Falls; Florence Penfield Cardell, of Missoula, Mont.; Edna Penfield Williams, of Miami, Fla.; Rock Creek Cemetery is given $500, and the vestry of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church is given a $1,000 trust fund for endowment purposes. Frederick R. Shearer, a former law partner, is given $5,000, and Betty McKnew, a godchild, is given $1,000.

Mr. Penfield's international law library is bequeathed to the University of Michigan and his private personal library to the Penfield Memorial Hospital.

All his household effects and other items are to be divided among a sister, Blanche M. Penfield, and two cousins, Grace Stayt and Mary Cardell. The Penfield Memorial Hospital, which is to be established at Auburn, Ind., in memory of Mr. Penfield's parents, also is given all his historic papers, his foreign commissions and other private papers.

The remainder of the estate is given in trust to the Washington Loan & Trust Co., which is directed to pay the net income annually to Blanche M. Penfield, and upon her death the money is to be used in establishing the memorial hospital. In a codicil to ...e will directions are given for a $10,000 trust fund for Mary Penfield Cardell. The chauffeur and cook, who is not named, is to be given $100 for each year he was in Mr. Penfield's employ.

PANIC

seizes the Fitch Family when hot faucets run cold

The Fitches are dining out. The hour draws near. Someone has discovered there is no hot water. Fire's out. Water's cold. The elder Fitch forgot to look after the water heater. The Fitches are floundering around for an idea—panic stricken. What to do! What to do!

Such is the situation that arises in the best of families. The Fitches had probably thought many times of getting a Self-Action Gas Water Heater—yet, like many other families, kept putting it off. Why let a matter of hot water catch you unawares? Why not install a Self-Action Gas Water Heater now and be assured of a plentiful supply of hot water when you want it—automatically! A small down payment and the balance on easy terms, with no extra charge for financing, will put one in your home. You can have an allowance of $10 on your old heater, too. Drop in at any of our display rooms to choose your model. Also ask about our "bargain basement."

Mexican Residence Claimed by McLean

Attorneys File Amended Answer to Wife's Suit to Block Divorce.

Attorneys for Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court an amendment to his original answer to the suit brought here by his wife, Mrs. Evalyn Lucille Walsh McLean, to restrain him from prosecuting to a conclusion a divorce proceedings in Cuernavaca, of the State of Morales, Mexico.

The attorneys, Julius I. Peyser and George E. Edelin pointed out to the court the "bona fide" residence of Mr. McLean in Mexico. The laws there set no period of time in which to become a citizen, the answer discloses. The law only requires that residence there be actual and that the municipal authorities shall be satisfied that the residence is genuine before a "certificate of enrollment" is issued.

Mr. McLean says in the answer, that on February 2 last, he was actually residing there and was registered and inscribed in the census of the City of Cuernavaca as a citizen. A certificate attesting to this is attached to his answer.

Mr. McLean's answer was filed to show to Justice Jesse Adkins the statutes of Morales relating to the establishment of residence there so that the justice might pass upon the genuineness of Mr. McLean's citizenship in Mexico.

TARIFFS AND TRADE.

The cry for lower tariffs which has gone up from the International Chamber of Commerce is tame, indeed. It is well understood in the United States that European industrialists who pay their labor a fraction of what American workmen receive would like to have the great American market opened to their products. International economists speak of restoring prosperity by the stimulation of international commerce as a lofty economic ideal, but their real purpose is take advantage of America's greater purchasing power. It is not surprising that they should make a bid for the greatest market in the world in these hard times.

The surprising thing is that some Americans are taken in by these altruistic attempts to pull the world out of the depression by pushing the United States deeper in. Foreign economists who have the interests of their own countries at heart have asked for nothing more than did Julius H. Barnes before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. A few Americans have accepted the dictum that foreign commerce is the basis of prosperity and they blindly oppose everything that seems to interfere with that theory. The people are told that foreign commerce will be their salvation. No one ever stops to explain how that miracle can be brought about, and every good international economist carefully avoids the fact that foreign commerce is even now more prosperous than domestic business.

Why should Americans who are presumably not indifferent to the welfare of their country ignore the facts of the foreign trade situation? No less an authority than the Chamber of Commerce of the United States proves that the tariff has been an insignificant factor in the decline of international trade. The chamber's analysis shows that during 1930 Europe bought 48 per cent of American exports. Europe has not taken so large a proportion of our exports for five years. Sales to Europe declined 22 per cent in price, which means only about 12 per cent in volume, due to the sharp decline in commodity prices.

Those economists who blame the tariff for the depression and look to a revision of duties as the basis of recovery must find this uncommonly strange. American exports to the world declined 19 per cent in volume and 27 per cent in price during 1930. Every one knows that the American tariff is aimed chiefly at Europe. Yet trade with Europe during the depression year was prosperous as compared with our trade with those countries which pay little or no tariff.

Only 38 per cent of American imports from Europe were duty free before enactment of the Smoot-Hawley bill. Although no figures are available, it may be assumed that the percentage entering without duty now is slightly lower. But nearly 84 per cent of all imports from South America enter free. Africa sends 90 per cent of her imports into the United States without duty; Asia, 81 per cent, and Oceania, nearly 60 per cent. Yet exports to these regions, which have almost free access to the American market, have declined to a much greater extent than have exports to European countries against which most American tariff schedules are levied.

For example, only about 30 per cent of French imports enter the American market free, yet American exports to France last year decreased only 16 per cent in price. On the other hand, Japan has a free market for 87 per cent of the goods she sends to the United States. But exports to that country fell off 37 per cent. The plain implication from these facts is that the tariff had virtually no influence on the decline in international trade. The United States has lost customers only when their failing purchasing power made it impossible for them to continue their usual buying.

As a matter of fact, American foreign trade is far ahead of domestic production. The National Foreign Trade Council finds that 12 per cent of American production is now shipped abroad as compared with 8 per cent for the previous three years. Since the beginning of 1930 the volume of exports has declined 15 per cent, but domestic production has decreased 25 per cent. American industrialists are now asked to cut down their output still further and American labor to forego the hope of steady work so that foreign producers may supply to a greater extent the needs of the American people.

Purchasing power has held up better in the United States than in any other country. As a result imports to this country have decreased much less rapidly than exports, in spite of the tariff. Yet at this critical time the United States is asked to agree to further encroachment by foreign competitors upon the domestic market. Compared to domestic trade, foreign commerce amounts to only a drop in the bucket. Yet even that foreign trade has been and can be expanded while the American standard of living is protected. Selfish proposals to tear down the American protective policy at this critical time are unworthy of serious consideration.

CAMPAIGN EXPENDITURES.

Senator Nye's campaign expenditures committee is giving attention to the question of how Congress can prevent would-be senators from squandering their money on campaigns. Every one who has appeared before the committee thus far seems to agree that the expenditures of candidates should be rigidly limited, and some are brave enough to point out how it should be done. But the total effect of all this enlightenment is to produce only a more poignant realization of the difficulties that such schemes involve.

Prof. Charles A. Beard pointed out with remarkable clarity the absurdities of the Senate's procedure in these matters in the past, and then proceeded to outline a plan whereby the Senate could sink still deeper into confusion. The Senate, he said, has established dangerous precedents. It has declined to seat candidates elected by the people, even though they have presented proper credentials, on the ground that they have spent too much money. Yet Congress has not prescribed maximum expenditures for primary campaigns, and it is questionable whether it has authority to do so. A great majority of the people will agree with Prof. Beard that "this represents the quintessence of arbitrary government."

But what remedy does the learned professor advocate? The present law, he says, is not strong enough. It must be given teeth. Prof. Beard himself has designed an excellent set of molars for that purpose. He would have Congress pass a law providing that whenever a candidate is unseated for excessive expenditures his place in Congress would be given to the candidate who stood next to him in the balloting. The purpose behind this novel arrangement is to give defeated candidates an incentive to attack the winners on the ground of corruption.

Is it possible that a man who has seen as much of politics as Prof. Beard actually thinks that defeated candidates need any goading to attack corruption in the opposition party? His suggestion takes on the aspect of rewarding a bulldog for attacking a cat. But aside from the motive behind this proposal it cuts deep down into the theory and practice of representative government. Prof. Beard suggests that a State shall be forced to send to the Senate a candidate who has been voted down by the people. The whole State would be penalized for the extravagance of one individual. Pennsylvania, for example, might vote for a Republican senator with a view to maintaining a protective tariff policy and yet be represented by a free-trade Democrat who had been defeated at the polls. The effect of such a statute would be to rob the people of their right to elect their own representatives.

The Senate's desire to escape the contamination of wealth likely will not be strong enough to prompt it to swallow this unleavened piece of nonsense.

WEATHER FORECASTING.

It may be assumed that the American Meteorological Society, which is now in session in this city will include in its program of discussion all phases of weather forecasting, which will cover a wide field. Since Dr. Abbot, of the Smithsonian Institution, has announced that long range weather forecasting may be practical from the study of changes in solar radiation, it is permissible to assume that the chief of the Weather Bureau will be less emphatic in his declarations that the Weather Bureau "knows of no sound principle upon which long range weather forecasts can be predicated."

Dr. T. Wayland Vaughan, head of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography and one of the foremost scientists of the world, has made important advances in seasonal rainfall forecasts on the Pacific Coast, as a result of his intensive studies of ocean surface temperatures. Perhaps the Weather Bureau will in the future refrain from brushing aside, with but casual references, the study of ocean surface temperatures.

At the session of the society on Monday Dr. Henry, of the Weather Bureau, declared that widespread droughts like that of 1930 never come without warning. Yet the chief of the bureau has asserted that the bureau cannot determine its cause. One long range weather forecaster of more than local reputation has declared that a combination of lunar influence over the cold water areas of the Atlantic, combined with high solar radiation, was the cause of this drought and that the same cosmic influences had repeated themselves every 56 years as far back as records are available. In support of this contention he refers to the great droughts of 1762, 1818, 1874 and 1930.

In view of their investigations thus far carried on it would seem to be worth while to have scientists of such high standing as Dr. Abbot and Dr. Vaughan examine meteorological theories and their application to long range weather forecasting. There should be better cooperation between the Weather Bureau and the Smithsonian Institution. If, as Dr. Abbot states, the daily changes in solar radiation affect temperatures in Washington five days later, why should not the public be furnished regularly with solar constant observations?

The Astrophysical Observatory has three stations in operation at Mount Montezuma, Chile; Brukkaros, South Africa, and Table Mountain, California. Yet the daily solar constant is not kept up to date. Certainly these three stations should be able to provide a sufficiently close approximation every day. These observations have been going on for 26 years. Perhaps the meeting of the American Meteorological Society may be able to devise means of utilizing the latest scientific discoveries and of making weather data more available to the public.

FAULTY AIRPLANES.

Thirty-five Fokker airplanes have been condemned as unfit for carrying passengers by the Department of Commerce. The airway corporations owning these planes have been advised that unless, and until, certain changes have been provided in the wing construction of these airships they must remain "grounded" so far as their use in the transportation of passengers is concerned. But the owners may still use them, without changes, in the transportation of mails and express packages.

If these airships are unsafe it would seem to require some explanation from the aeronautical division of the Commerce Department as to the basis of its ruling that they may be used for transportation of mail and express. Certainly the difference between the weight of passengers and express matter would not be a sufficient reason for this discrimination.

Apparently the department has reached the conclusion that a mechanical fault in the construction of the trimotored Fokker was the cause of the disaster which carried Knute Rockne and his fellow passengers to their deaths on March 31. But if these planes are unsafe why did the department draw the line at passenger transportation? Are not the lives of the pilots of equal importance?

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 5.—Reports that the student body of some educational institution has proposed to take over the authority vested by law in the board of trustees and the faculty are no longer novel, but they are none the less disquieting.

Charitable and devout persons have made gifts to provide our youth with an opportunity for education. The Government has contributed taxes. Parents send their children there often at considerable sacrifice. Some of our best men and women give their services as trustees. The result is a great charity for the benefit of young people. The object is mental and moral discipline through obedience to rules as well as application to study. The whole plan involves submission by the students to duly constituted authority.

Yet every little while these opportunities are ignored and these principles are rejected by a student revolt. The seat of the trouble is back in the home. Real reverence and obedience have not been sufficiently taught there. But institutions of learning can not for that reason disregard their duty. If they meet their obligations they must train their students to realize that liberty comes only through obedience to law and devotion to truth. To teach that lesson is worth great sacrifice.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE MEXICAN HEGIRA

From the San Francisco Argonaut.

The short and simple annals of the poor contain no more moving and tragic story than is being enacted today in the desert as from 60,000 to 100,000 Mexicans journey to their own patria in an exodus from the United States which amounts in size and import to a virtual folk movement.

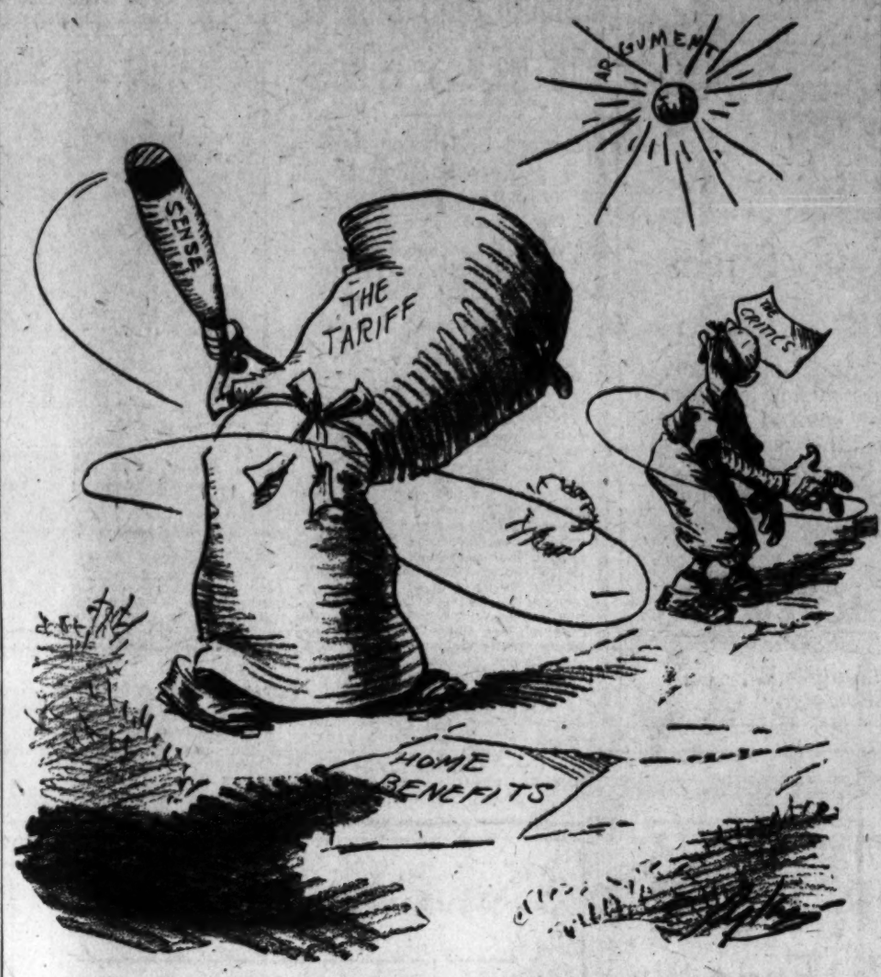
For many years the Mexican has been pouring into the United States. Stories of higher wage, of opportunities for education, of homes as against adobe huts, of a land where the larder would not longer be circumscribed by the single word bean, have lured him here. He has worked on the railroads, in the cotton fields. Partly through his own wish, partly through social and economic pressure he has founded his own colonia in most cases in the city to which he drifted. From the time the depression first struck the United States he has found that milk and honey no longer existed in the Promised Land and so he has turned his eyes back to his barren hills and vast stretches of desert and cactus longingly.

And he has acted. His home equity has been sacrificed, his furniture sold for less than a song, and in ancient, disreputable auto, less frequently by horse and buggy and actually ofttimes on foot he has set out on his long journey. It is a movement that has been going on for months and that has swelled to the proportions of a migration.

Hundreds of them have died there, their relatives and friends struggling on with the corpses as they fear they are themselves soon to become. Children have died at their mothers' breasts. Mothers have died that their children might live. Alongside every camino in Chihuahua are these mute monuments to as terrific and horrifying a trek as the world has ever seen.

Bravely, indeed, they started home! Miserably do they die! As Spartans do, their families struggle on with their dead loved ones as an additional burden! Thousands dead, dying, starving, footsore, animated only by that instinct which makes every living thing seek its familiar home whereat to die!

The world knows no sadder saga of sorrow.



Well, They've Put Nothing Over Yet.

(Copyright 1931.)

POST HASTE.

A fine feeling of reciprocal courtesy surely will prompt Central American residents to come down to the coast if they desire American protection.

China abolishes extraterritoriality. The Old Lady is not so overwhelmed with troubles that she couldn't give John Bull, Uncle Sam and M. France a composite slap with the butt of her fan.

Or was it, possibly, her home-brewed troubles and the political witch doctors gathering at Nanking that caused the yellow dragon to snap at the foreign devils?

Prof. Polock proposes to limit campaign expenditures to 4 cents per voter. Be liberal, Prof., and make it an even nickel for convenience; that would only send two letters and a post card.

THE BUSINESS GIRL.

You have only to walk through the streets of New York before office hours in the morning or just after office hours in the evening to be amazed by the sheer quantity of pretty, alluring, well dressed girls and of elegant and attractive women who crowd the pavements, says Sylvia Thompson, in the London Graphic. One is forced to the conclusion that there can hardly be a man in America who won't get an exceptionally pretty wife.

These girls and women, who work in stores and offices and hotels, are quite as smart and usually very much more lively and attractive than any gathering of London debutantes.

The fact is that the American business girl is characteristic of the whole American attitude toward women in business. Whereas in England women came gradually into business, by back doors, grudgingly admitted and grudgingly thanked for their work or admired for their capabilities, in America a girl or woman who worked never had to contend with a bulk of social prejudice, masculine obstinacy and a general attitude of critical grumbling conservatism.

That is why they have been able to set a standard of combined charm and efficiency which the English business woman has only quite lately begun to follow.

The Villain Never Scuttles the Ship if There Is No Lifeboat for Himself.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

It is possible to prevent all murders except those done by madmen.

That seems an exaggeration, but the truth of it is easily established.

Good citizens are trying to determine whether capital punishment or life imprisonment is more effective in preventing murder. Meanwhile life remains unsafe because neither form of punishment is more than a theory.

A short time ago two murderers agreed to plead guilty if promised a death sentence. They had experienced prison life and dreaded it more than they dreaded death.

The normal man values liberty above all other things. No sum of money would tempt him to surrender his freedom and spend the remainder of his life in a cage.

And no man in his right mind would do deliberate murder if he knew beyond all possibility of doubt that he would be locked in prison within an hour and in prison would end his days.

The threat of life imprisonment does not deter him because he knows that the average "life sentence" is only ten years—and knows, moreover, that he may escape punishment altogether if he has money enough to "fight the case."

What is true of life imprisonment is equally true of hanging or electrocution.

If he knew beyond all doubt that murder would bring him to the gallows within a week, no sane man would take the life of another.

The threat of death does not deter him because he knows that legal trickery offers a way of escape, and that juries are reluctant to find a verdict of guilty if the penalty is death.

In short, either life imprisonment or capital punishment would prevent murder if the killer knew he had no chance to escape, and neither is now effective because the killer has reasonable hope of "beating the rap" altogether.

You know that is true. You know that no sane man would deliberately exchange his life or his freedom for the privilege of killing another.

It isn't the kind of punishment but the certainty of punishment that makes law effective.

Remove the possibility of pardon or parole and so reform our system of jurisprudence that no killer can hope to escape the punishment provided and there will be an end of murders.

The dullest child has wit enough to disobey without dread when it learns that threatened punishment never is administered.

Tariff Reform?

New York Times.

Two Kansas Democrats, Representative Ayres and Gov. Woodring, are trying to impress upon the farmers the ravage and ruin inflicted upon them by protection. Irrespective of the merits, the task of stirring the Corn Belt and the Wheat Belt to mutiny and rage against "Republican protection" has long seemed millennial. The blessings of the present tariff could not have been bestowed without Democratic complicity. The complaint runs against both parties. The "aggrieved" farmers are sometimes witnesses for the defense. The day before the Sunflower prosecutors addressed the jury the Washington envoy of the American Farm Bureau Federation wrote a letter to the Tariff Commission, protesting against an investigation for a change of rates on particular commodities unless asked for by "a large and representative group or groups."

It is a natural result of protection that many impassioned declaimers against it in Congress always try to get their bit. A's stuff gets it. B's stuff doesn't. B is properly enraged by the iniquities of protection. So hard it is to spread the butter fairly. The ardent tariff-smashers of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas howl for a protective duty on oil. Leaving that unprotected was the crime of 1930. Republican politicians in those States agree with the Democrats. This slaying of ewe-lambs is not to be borne. Democrats, with their highly speckled record on protection, must feel a little uneasy in the white robes of tariff reformers. To storm at once against protection and lack of protection, as some of them do, would be grotesque in any other than the fantastic world of politics.

No Time to Show the White Feather.

Detroit News.

We can scarcely believe the proposal that the Republicans in the next House of Representatives "throw up the sponge with respect to the organization of that body" will be followed. For this would allow the Democrats and "radicals" to elect the Speaker and thus secure control of the leading committees and dictate the national legislative policies during the next two cruicial years. We are sure it will not get much of a hand from either President Hoover or the real Republicans of the country.

In fact, it seems to us that this proposal is the extreme of political fatuity. It is based, we suspect, upon the theory that the Republican voters are not quite bright, and would approve the deliberate abnegation of their responsibilities by the national leaders of the party which last year returned a majority—albeit a very narrow one—to the popular branch of Congress on the campaign plea that its continuance in power was indispensable to a "safe and sane" conduct of the Government in these critical times.

Frankly, we have never heard of a more cowardly or un-American partisan proposal. It shows beyond peradventure that the Republicans who are sponsoring it and who were so recently claiming everything as the result of Republican rule until everything went blooey, are, in Matthew Arnold's phrase, "light half-believers in their causal creed" and are afraid to face the music—to courageously shoulder the responsibilities which they once confidently assured the country they alone were competent to bear.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Parties Will Have a Gay Old Time Trying to Keep Prohibition Out of Politics.

While there is no important political campaign slated for the year 1931 in any part of the United States, there are indications everywhere that the question of prohibition will enter very largely into the contests for seats in Congress in most States in 1932.

Within the past few weeks the "liquor question" has become one of the foremost topics of discussion wherever men and women have foregathered to air their views. First was Mr. Raskob's declaration of policy which he regards of prime importance in framing the platform upon which the Democrats should place their candidate for the Presidency. Next came a vigorous demand for repeal from the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. Following this outburst, the labor organization, headed by Mathew Woll, declared unequivocally, and practically unanimously, for amendments to the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture and sale of wines, more or less light, and malt liquors with more potency than the one-half of 1 per cent slop which now masquerades as "near beer."

This declaration of the labor organization for the modification of Mr. Volstead's legislative masterpiece has brought about the union, for propaganda purposes, of Mr. Woll's forces with those of the Congressional Districts Modification League, whose canvassers have thus far gathered the signatures of nearly 4,000,000 people, of whom some 12,000 are residents of Washington, to a petition praying Congress to do just exactly what Mr. Woll's followers desire.

The oldest association opposing the dry forces is the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which is out with its heavy barrages against that addition to or blot upon, according to the view of the individual, the fundamental law of the land. These militant opponents of the eighteenth amendment are for repeal, the wiping out entirely of that section of the Constitution which they hold responsible for the crime wave, juvenile delinquency, poison alcohol and general contempt for law which is so manifest throughout the land.

The youngest of the associations which is in the firing line of the attack in this Nation-wide campaign is the organization of young men known as the Crusaders. They are at the present time more in evidence than any of the others and their press bureau has finished a great deal of material designed to show the utter break-down of the prohibition law in every State. One has only to glance at the map of the United States which appeared in The Post on Sunday to note the number of illicit stills—each dot on that map representing 25—which were destroyed during the past year, to realize that the Crusaders are not asleep.

Party leaders will have difficulty in keeping the "liquor question" out of the campaign in 1932.

President Hoover Is Praised for His Recognition of Boy Hero.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What a grand and glorious tribute President Hoover paid to that little country boy in recognition of his bravery and self-sacrifice. Bryan Untiedt deserved much, but whoever dreamed such honor would ever be bestowed upon him. President Hoover, with all the cares of State and intricate problems to handle, was not too busy to stop to honor the boy as no other boy has ever been honored, and how happy the President and his family must have made him!

EVOLUTION OF THE FLAPPER.

The flapper of yesterday worried her mother,
And worried her grandma and worried her brother;
Her dress was outrageous; her conduct seemed bold.
She was the constant despair of the old,
And they oft sat together as grown-ups will do
To wonder "whatever the child's coming to!"

Today as I strolled on a bungalow street
This young woman in question I happened to meet,
She was pushing a little pink carriage wherein
A baby was nestled tucked up to the chin,
And she lifted a blanket and gave me a peep
At the cute little rascal that lay there asleep.

She urged me to look at his dear little nose;
She forced me to gaze on his fingers and toes;
She talked of his feedings, and pinching his cheek
She boasted the pound he gained in a week,
And she said in the way that all fond mothers do:
"He never gets cross and he sleeps the night through!"

I thought as I left her, the frivolous day
Like everything else comes and hurries away.
The oldsters may think that the world's gone to pot;
That the virtues they've preached are wiped out, but they're not,
For the best of our customs and manners survive
And they all get old-fashioned when babies arrive.

CHINA BACKS CHIANG AS UPRISING LOOMS

Mysterious Blast in Arsenal Kills Ten; Troops Sent Against Rebels.

Nanking, China, May 5 (A.P.).—Confronted by smoldering rebellion in Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces and widespread communistic banditry in many others, the Nationalist government attempted today to consolidate factions to support Chiang Kai-Shek, its head and generalissimo.

While reports poured in of mobilization of rebel forces in Canton and Kwangtung Province to drive him from the government, Chiang Kai-Shek opened the National people's congress here with a statement of the government's achievements.

Demanding that Chiang resign or fight, Canton reports said, revolutionary leaders were raising an army of 50,000 men to thrust him from the power he had gained by leading Cantonese forces to victory in 1926 and 1927 in erecting the Nationalist government.

Chiang, other dispatches from Canton said, was sending Nationalist troops from Fukien Province to combat the rebellious forces being gathered by Chen Chi-Tang, military governor of Kwangtung.

Adding to the seriousness of the Canton situation, the government arsenal on the outskirts of the city was blown up mysteriously, killing ten persons and injuring many.

In the midst of the turbulence the government reiterated its determination to abolish extraterritorial rights of foreign governments. After January 1 next, it stated, foreigners' civil and criminal cases must be tried in Chinese courts instead of in tribunals presided over by their own nationals. In certain areas, however, including Shanghai, Tientsin, Mukden and Canton, special courts would be established for foreigners' cases.

Addressing the National Peoples Congress, Chiang Kai-Shek, ignored the incipient rebellion in the south. He reviewed the progress made by the Nationalist government and said China would do well to emulate the achievements of Soviet Russia in developing industries and communications.

Today Is Anniversary Of George's Accession

London, May 5 (A.P.).—Tomorrow is the twenty-first anniversary of the accession of King George V to the British throne. He succeeded his father when Edward VII died on May 6, 1910.

It is not customary to hold a popular celebration of the event. The only public recognition usually is the firing of a slute at St. James' Park and at some of the military and naval centers. The king and queen plan to spend the day quietly at Windsor.

boxes. He also questioned the authority of the courts to issue such an order.

Will Listen to Arguments.

Judge Meekins, who used to be counsel for the alien property custodian here, announced he would listen to arguments anytime Senator Bailey and the Attorney General wanted to appear.

Judge Johnson J. Hayes, of the middle North Carolina District, held that Senators Watson, Moses and Bulkley were well within their rights in instituting the action.

The prospect is that the Senate elections subcommittee will send Mr. Colladay to North Carolina to uphold its end of the legal argument.

The question is, why are Democrats so reluctant to allow the ballots to be counted? It may be a canard, but it is being whispered in Republican circles that the ballots have all been destroyed.

Meanwhile, the Commissioners are awaiting a reply from the Department of Justice as to their request that the department make an inquiry into the charges of price fixing and combination in restraint of trade among the coal dealers.

initial credits of 40,000,000 francs. All nine vessels are to be laid down before March 31, 1932.

The 7,600-ton cruisers will inaugurate a new class of speedy ships destined to protect lines of communication, particularly to protect troopships to and from the African colonies in wartime.

The building will proceed regardless of the outcome of the Italian negotiations, except that France will concentrate on cruisers and line ships within the Washington treaty limits if the negotiations fail.

As expected, Dumont's new program includes no submarines, out of deference to the wishes of Great Britain.

In presenting the project to his associates, Dumont said Italy has been dropping off the shipyards into the Mediterranean six excellent cruisers of 10,000 tons. The latest, the Corizia, has a novel feature in being equipped with three reconnaissance planes. French technical experts contend that the new Italian cruisers have a certain advantage over French ships of the same class.

At the same time, Germany, under the Versailles treaty, will within the next few years put into service six ships of an entirely new class, more powerfully armed than other light ships and having technical perfections which would permit daring and costly raids on shipping lanes far from their base. They will be so fast they can outrun most French cruisers.

Up to the present, under the 1922 French program, 157,444 tons of ships have been put into commission, and when the program has been completed there will be at least that much more.

Revolt May Delay Flight of DO-X

Insurgents at Bolama May Confiscate Fuel for Giant Seaplane.

Lisbon, Portugal, May 5 (A.P.).—The proposed flight of the German flying boat, DO-X to South America may be delayed at Portuguese Guinea because its fuel is needed by revolutionaries who seized the power in Bolama a fortnight ago, it was indicated today.

Lisbon representatives of the Dornier Co., owners of the giant seaplane, made this suggestion when no word was received that the DO-X had taken off for test flights today as scheduled. It was pointed out that the plane could communicate directly by wireless after being in the air.

Thirty thousand liters of petrol were stored in advance at Bolama for the German plane, the officials said.

Secret French Warship Will Be Supreme on Seas

Paris, May 5 (U.P.).—France has answered the challenge of naval skill issued when Germany lifted the secrecy that surrounded her 10,000-ton, electrically welded, fleet "pocket" warship.

French naval experts, working also in secrecy, have perfected a 23,333-ton battle cruiser which, when completed in 1934, will be the most effective on the seas, able to steam 11,000 miles at the speed of a transatlantic liner without putting in for fuel. In battle, when pushed for action, it can steam at 31 knots and will be able to stand off 30,000 yards from its target and bombard it with six 11-inch guns, each dropping 678-pound projectiles.

Nothing afloat can compare with the compact warship the French are to build, and only the new Pensacola class of first-line light cruisers of the United States fleet can come near matching it. The famed German Ersatz series will be surpassed in speed and armament. Its characteristics will be:

Tonnage—23,333.
Crew—1,000.
Speed—31 knots.
Radius—11,000 miles at 20 knots.
Armament—3 turrets, 305 mm. guns; 12 9-inch guns; 12 3-inch antiaircraft guns; 4 18-inch torpedo tubes.
Length—540 feet.

Cleric Bars Arms; Denied Citizenship

Rev. Alexander Dougal Is Refused Application by Justice.

The refusal to "bear arms" in the military services of the United States yesterday cost the Rev. Alexander Dougal, 52 years old, of B street near Seventeenth street southeast, his application for citizenship in the United States.

Justice Luhring had nearly concluded his examination of the prospective citizen, who is a Scot, when he asked about bearing arms. He had previously said he would accept service on the battle front tending the wounded and administering to religious needs.

The "no" to the justice's query about arms brought a sudden halt to the proceedings and Justice Luhring dismissed the application. At the same hearing about twenty others were admitted to citizenship.

Stimsons Give Garden Party For Delegates

Brilliant Reception Had in Lovely Grounds on Woodley Estate.

IN a woodland setting dotted with the pastels of pink dogwood, lilacs and wistaria the Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson received yesterday in the lovely gardens of Woodley in honor of the delegates to the sixth congress of the International Chamber of Commerce and their wives and daughters. If spring, with its flowers and budding trees, lent beauty to the scene no less did the marquees, where tea was served, and the small tables and beach umbrellas scattered over the sloping lawns add their gay and colorful note.

Near the wistaria-laden terrace the Secretary and Mrs. Stimson greeted the guests, who numbered more than a thousand, Mr. Charles Cook, of the State Department, making the presentations with Mr. Richard Southgate, Capt. Eugene Regnier and Mr. Theodore Joslin welcoming the guests upon their entrance to the lawns.

Mrs. Stimson had chosen a smart gown of satin, the overtunic of American Beauty falling in tight lines over a skirt of midnight blue. With it she wore a dark blue straw hat and a scarf of sable.

As the lines of distinguished foreign guests began breaking up into small groups near the marquees, with their striped awnings, and American delegates and Washington official and residential society mingled with the visitors there was presented a scene distinctive of the Capital yet always new and stimulating. Guests from every land, from far India, Japan, Czechoslovakia, South America, and beyond the seven seas were noted. Sir George Paish, of Great Britain, came; Mr. Georges Theunis, of Belgium, and Mme. Theunis were among the guests, the latter having come with Vice President Curtis and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, who also had with them Mrs. James J. Davis. Mme. Theunis was most distinguished looking in black; Mrs. Gann wore chartreuse and brown chiffon with a large hat in matching tones, and Mrs. Davis had on a sports suit of light blue with hat and shoes of the same.

Also from abroad were noted M. C. J. Boisseau and M. W. Stucki, of The Netherlands; Mr. S. R. Bombani, of India; Mr. Reider Due, of Norway; Senor Joseph A. Carras, of Spain; Dr. J. Tobias, of Czechoslovakia. In addition to those from far countries numerous delegates with their wives, who represent various large American cities, attended the fete. Everywhere were expressions of delight over the lovely grounds of Woodley, the charming house and, more important, the gracious cordiality of the hosts.

Guests wandered not only through the grounds but also through the drawing rooms of the house, many finding interest in a photograph in a silver frame which graced the library table. It was the picture of Prince and Princess Takamatsu, of Japan, recently the Nation's guests, whose visit to Washington was one of the high lights of an important season.

Heading the official group was the Vice President, genial as ever, with Mrs. Gann.

Only two of the Cabinet ladies were present, Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley and Mrs. William D. Mitchell. The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, was on hand, without Mrs. Adams. Mrs. Hurley was dressed in a springlike dark blue printed frock with which she wore a hat of matching straw. Mrs. Mitchell also chose a printed frock for the occasion, in a moss green shade.

Others noted were the German Ambassador and Frau Von Prittwitz; the Turkish Ambassador, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar; the Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Francis Le Compte Spalding; the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi, the Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel, the latter chic in a frock of black and white printed crepe, with which she wore a cape of black velvet and a close-fitting black hat; the Minister of Greece, Mr. Simopoulos, and the Minister of Uruguay and Mme. Varela.

Among the others noted were Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, lovely in costume of blue crepe in printed design. With her was her daughter, Mrs. Chauncey Waddell, of New York, who wore black and with her costume a necklace and earrings of turquoise. Others were Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. James Grafton Rogers, wife of Assistant Secretary of State; Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Frau Leitner, Mr. MacBride, of the State Department, and Mrs. MacBride; Mlle. Maelli Phaeffli, niece of Mme. Peter; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Merrill and Mrs. Theodore Joslin.

Also, the United States Ambassador to Germany and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, who are visiting in Washington on a leave of absence from the former's post; Mr. George W. Wickersham, who was seen chatting with the Secreary of the Navy and Mrs. Stanley M. Rhinehart; Mrs. William R. Castle, jr., wife of the Undersecretary of State; Mrs. McCeney Werlich, Count de Montefuerte, of the Spanish Embassy; Maj. Gen. Commandant and Mrs. Ben H. Fuller, Mme. Peter, wife of the Minister of Switzerland; Mrs. George S. Patton and her daughters, Miss Beatrice Patton and Miss Ruth Patton; Mrs. Joseph I. Davies and her daughter, Miss Rahel Davies; Mrs. Lawrence Baker and Mrs. Daniel Borden.

Miss Ellis Bostrom, daughter of the Minister of Sweden, was with her fiance, Mr. Sixten F. Wollmar, of New York, who is one of the delegates. Always attractive, Miss Bostrom looked particularly smart in a beige coat with a large fur collar and a hat of beige.

Several members of the younger set, who are on the reception committee for the women accompanying the delegates, were present, including Mrs. Charles P. Stone, Mrs. Jasper Du Bose and Miss Jocelyn Hibbard.

Miss Hester Laning, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Harris Laning, now stationed in Newport will be one of the bridesmaids for Miss Eleanor Glassford, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William A. Glassford, whose marriage to Lieut. Ernest Von Heimburg, U. S. N., will take place in Newport this afternoon.

Lamonts Hosts To Hoovers at Cabinet Dinner

Sir Arthur Balfour One of Guests Invited to Meet President.

Adding another note of state dignity to the crowded week of social affairs was the dinner last night in honor of the President and Mrs. Hoover given by the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont at their house on Kalorama road, the dinner marking one of the few remaining Cabinet functions honoring the President and First Lady.

Among the guests invited was Sir Arthur Balfour, of England, in town as one of Great Britain's representatives at the important commerce parley in session this week and one of Washington's ever popular visitors. Also present was a group of distinguished Chicagoans, including Mr. Silas H. Strawn, recently elected president of the International Chamber of Commerce, and acting as "chairman in chief" of the sixth congress, and Mrs. Strawn; Mr. Melvin A. Traylor, banker and financier, and Mrs. Traylor; Mr. John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist, of the Chicago Tribune, and Mrs. McCutcheon.

From New York came Mr. C. J. Crowley, president of the New York Central, and Mrs. Crowley and Mrs. Chauncey Belknap, daughter of the Secretary and Mrs. Lamont, who came more than a week ago to attend the wedding of Miss Gertrude Lamont last Saturday. Also at the dinner were the son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, jr., of Larkspur, Colo.

An arrangement of spring flowers decked the table.

Although two Cabinet dinners remain yet to honor the President and Mrs. Hoover no announcement as to their dates has been given owing to mourning in both the family of the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown and the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak.

In celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Church entertained at dinner last evening at their home, 1608 Twentieth street.

Also Mr. and Mrs. McKee Barclay, the latter formerly Miss Helen Church, of Baltimore; and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Blair, of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Blair was Miss Maxwell Church.

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Sweet and Thoughtful Cad.

I AM 25 years of age and am going with a man two years my senior. We love each other very much and plan to be married in the fall, but my problem is this: While he is everything that is sweet, kind, thoughtful, generous and all that is to be desired in a man, he argues that I should "prove" to him my love—and not wait until our marriage. While I have no intention of succumbing to his way of thinking, I am wondering if this is a natural state of affairs for lovers or whether it denotes a flaw in the make-up of the man. Please let me have your advice as soon as possible. I love him very much, but if it means that this state of affairs can jeopardize our future happiness, I can give him up, even though it would mean many a heartache and the loss of the one person I love, but better have the heartache now than later.

UNCERTAIN.

The man is a cad. And cads are often sweet and thoughtful—when it is to their advantage to be so. No man ever jeopardizes a woman. Either in her reputation or her peace of mind. Cads do so by natural instinct. It is one argument on the side of evolution—this reversion of theirs to grandpa ape. You are dealing with defective material, and I would be willing to wager I could tell you what sort of teeth, hands and eyebrows adorn this exhibit. How? By observing over a period of 10 years the man haled to court on charges of offenses against woman and the home. They might as well be labeled. Only we do not teach these things in our so-called schools. We teach a girl geometry and trigonometry in case she should ever have to build a bridge all by herself—but we do not teach her what to expect from a man whose thumbs turn inward.

One day in a large New York court of domestic relations, I wagered the judge that I could pick out the delinquent husbands, although most of the men present were attorneys waiting to be called. The judge took the wager. The wager was only for the lunch check, so I did not mind when I lost after picking out one of the leading lawyers of Manhattan. However, when the judge was bragging over the matter at lunch another man asked him the name of the lawyer I had picked as an erring husband. The mere mention of the name brought roars from every one present and they explained that he had twice been divorced—both times on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport! The judge paid for the lunch. And I am still picking defaulting husbands and natural born cads in railroad stations, subways, and over bridge tables in my friends' homes! It is really more fun than bridge. At the Loeb trial scientists told us just how criminal instincts write themselves upon a face. Or reversely why certain characteristics written on a face denotes unfailingly related tendencies in the character of the subject. Fascinating beyond words. Illuminating when applied to known subjects, it proved correct.

Your man is the type who after marriage and the birth of several children, would have affairs and ask you smilingly what you were going to do about it—knowing that with a few babies you could do very little. He is the type that wheedles his way. Such men are born weaklings and their weakness is their chief heritage to their offspring.

I agree with you that a passing heartache now is better than a brood of such children as this specimen would father. Would that more women had your sense of balance and sane view of the matter of attraction and its true relation to the waster matter of love.

Jane Interprets the Mode

A tailored mauve crepe flamenga evening pyjama or gown for a mature woman, and a youthful one of white crepe with removable silver lame bolero. (A Dah-ray design.)

New York, May 5.

I PICKED up an old volume on fashions of the last century in my fashion library and really I simply don't know why we women aren't the most grateful creatures alive. I don't want to go into the matter of medieval tortures of the corset that women were submitting to not more than 30 years ago, for even the amount of underclothing they were obliged to wear is terrifying enough—the petticoats and shirts and corset covers and pantalettes and whatnots, &c., and besides! How lucky we really are in comparison. And since I've started by measuring our luck by the small amount of underclothing we're permitted to wear, I might tell you that our luck's on the increase—which means that we're now eliminating the slip—until we've got our underthings down to the minimum of pieces possible and the maximum of coolness and comfort, for some, that is. But personally, I insist on wearing a slip with my transparent dresses, too, no matter how much fashion decrees that knee-length shorts are quite sufficient!

The new idea of lingerie is to have it made of the same material and color as your frock whenever that is possible. Of course certain material wouldn't do at all for lingerie. But even the light lacy wools are being used for the new undies, and exactly match your frock in color. (Of course, no handwork appears on these.)

There are many women, and I must tell you I'm one of them, that will always continue wearing the feminine, dainty, hand-worked, lace-trimmed lingerie. I don't care how stylish wool, however lacy it may be, as for lingerie—I won't wear anything but satin, or georgette, or chiffon, and I may be old-fashioned about this particular thing!

* * * *

A yard or so of this or that—a beautiful, hand-carved button — a fluffy pile of tiny picoted frills—a wee bit of hand smocking—and what have you? No, you couldn't ever guess, so I'll tell you right away—you have the material ingredients of three or more chic and lovely blouses to wear with your spring ensemble. But all these material ingredients wouldn't help you a bit if you didn't have Dare's careful instructions for putting them together! So-o-o-o, right now before anything else distracts you, get that stamped self-addressed envelope off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet. You'll adore the blouses, their inexpensiveness, and the ease with which you can make'em!

* * * *

Young or old, short or tall, slender or mature—pyjamas will get you all! And quite appropriately so, don't you think, from the two I designed and sketched for you today? The loveliest shade of mauve crepe flamenga is the best possible material for these trim and chic pyjamas so excellent for an older woman. And gay and fresh as spring itself is the little white pyjama ensemble. That silver bolero comes off, you know, when you feel you can part with the charm given by its long, tight sleeves!

* * * *

Don't overlook Dare's weekly fashion letter. It's always in the big Sunday Washington Post.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, Ph. D.

THE personal name "Gladys" is the Welsh form of "Claudia." "Claudia" is derived from the Latin adjective "claudus," mean "lame" and "crippled."

Various requests have been received from readers concerning the name systems of early races. Originally, and with all races, persons were given but a single name. As long as men lived in small and isolated communities there was but little danger of confusion in the use of single names. Whenever the possibility of such confusion did arise, however, it was generally a simple matter to further identify a person by mentioning the name of his father. The mentioning of the father's name together with the personal name constitutes the earliest common double name system. However, in some cases among early races we find that the identity of a person was sometimes made doubly clear by mentioning a personal characteristic. Thus, together with such Biblical names as "Simon Barjonas" (that is, Simon, son of Jonas), and "Joshua, son of Nun," we find the name "Simon the Leper." A third means of double identification was afforded by the use of the name of the place of a man's birth or residence. Hence, we find such names as "Simon of Cyrene" and "Mary Magdalen" (this is, Mary of Magdala). It may be mentioned in passing that the above-mentioned three systems of double identification are the commonest systems employed throughout the world, and are the ones which have given rise to most of our family names. However, in Biblical times, as is well known, such second names were not hereditary. Although a few men had second names, their sons began life with only a personal name, and in the great majority of cases that personal name was all that was needed.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

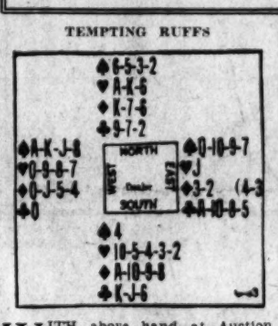
WORK ON BRIDGE

TEMPTING RUFFS



WITH above hand at Auction South would pass, and West would secure the contract with a bid of one Spade.

At Contract South passed, and West bid one Spade. After North's pass, East with 4¼ raisers, bid three Spades. West, who had a little better than a minumum one-bid, closed the contracting with a bid of four Spades.

North led the King of hearts, and switched to a Club when the singleton Heart appeared in dummy. Dummy won trick 2 with the Ace and Declarer's eye was caught by the absence of Hearts in that hand and of Clubs in his own. Since his trumps Were all high, a cross-ruff appeared to be the perfect play; West ruffed four Clubs and East three Hearts. But after that, Declarer had only one trump with which to combat the high Diamonds and four Trumps of his adversaries, and could not help losing three of his last four tricks—going down one.

Do you see how Declarer could have won game?

THE CORRECT PLAY

Declarer should have been able to see in advance that the cross-ruff would yield but eight trump tricks and the Ace of Clubs, and that a 3-3 division of the adverse Clubs would produce game even if the adverse trumps were divided 4-1. After winning the second trick with the Ace of Clubs, dummy should lead a small Club for West to trump with Spade Ace. West's Spade Eight then should be won by dummy's Nine. Another Club led, trumped by the King, sets up the suit. West then should lead the Jack of Spades, overtake with dummy's Queen, and draw North's two remaining trumps.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

THE SHASTA DAISY AND SINGLE PEONY.

ARE you familiar with the shasta daisy or the single peony? If you have them, let me make some practical suggestions as to their care, and if you havn't, this is just the right time to get some. They will in a short time multiply and fill up quite a bit of space in your garden.

The shasta daisy is a product of the Burbank experimental station, in southern California, and is an unusually hardy variety. It requires a rather rich soil and must be planted in strong sun. Before planting the seed, test the soil with litmus paper to see if it is acid. This perennial will not do well in an acid soil. The litmus test is one that every amateur gardner should learn to use. It is quite simple and sure.

Purchase 5 cents worth of litmus from any drug store. Then scrape away the surface of the soil from the ground in the bed in which you are about to sow the seeds. When you have removed the soil to the depth of about 3 inches, take out a cupful. If the soil is moist, do not add water. If dry, moisten it with pure water (preferably rainwater). Then put a strip of litmus paper into the soil and let remain there for five minutes. Then carefully remove it. If the blue paper becomes decidedly pink, it indicates a decided acidity of the soil, and lime must be added to sweeten it.

Add the lime one week and plant the seeds a week later. It is a good plan to test all the soil in your garden in this way. Sow the seeds of the shasta daisy on a dull day. Should the weather be unusually cold, as it sometimes is in May, cover the young seedlings with a layer of paper at night. After they are an inch high they will be able to take care of themselves, but it is best to take this precaution at first.

Should you care, the second season, to increase your number of plants, this variety can be easily grown by root division. One advantage of the shasta daisy is the fact that it is especially good for cutting purposes. When cut and kept in water they last for days.

The single peony may be rather new to you. It isn't new, but it isn't quite so common as the double one.

It has three advantages which make me emphasize it as a desirable plant for any garden. First, its foliage; it is beautiful the entire season. In early spring it is a deep copper color; Later it turns the loveliest, deepest green.

The second advantage is that this plant is partically never attacked by an insect, and the third is it is free from the ravages of blights such as attack so many of our garden plants. This variety of peony does best in a sunny location and a deep, rich soil. Always keep in mind the fact that all peonies are gross feeders and deep rooters.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7:10 p. m. to 8:25 p. m.

May 6 promises, according to its planetary aspects, to be a day fraught with some unexpected danger or unsuspected trouble which may unfavorably affect your future. In the evening, conditions undergo a sudden change, and the atmosphere will favor social activities and promote concord.

A child born on this May 6 will be obedient and winsome. It will be trustful and too credulous for its own good. Experience will, in its case, prove to be a good teacher, and as it matures, it will learn to love all and to trust only a few. Its disposition will be affectionate.

Born on May 6, you are hesitant and afraid to go ahead on your own. There is no excuse for such an attitude, as your intuition is well developed, your mind is keen and your ability can not be gainsaid. Notwithstanding these invaluable traits you, when a problem arises for settlement, just can not make up your mind. You are very strong on offering advice to others, and can save them, but you are incapable of saving yourself. Many fine opportunities will come your way—more than to the lot of the average person. You will let them slip, because of your lack of decision.

Your disposition is an equable one. Your sympathies are wide, and, in your judgment of others, you always display great toleration. You fill your mind with good thoughts so that there is no room left for bad ones. You are popular with your friends, and loved by all who comprise your family circle.

You have high ideals and sound principles, and delight rather in the simple, than in the ostentatious life. You are religiously inclined without being dogmatic or wedded to any one form of ritual. Your horoscope denotes a useful life and one well spent. The retrospect will, however, always be tinged with the "what-might-have-been."

MORE people travel on the CAPITOL LIMITED between Washington and Chicago than on any other train on any railroad. Women, especially, seem to enjoy the attractive Sunroom-Observation-Lounge with the maid-manicure in attendance. We try to make our passengers comfortable in the Parlor cars; to serve them good meals in our Colonial Diner; to offer them a restful night's sleep in our Compartment and Drawing Room Sleeping Cars.

Justice Will Annul Attorney's Marriage

In a memorandum opinion yesterday, Justice Jesse Adkins indicated he would file an opinion annulling the marriage of Margaret Katherine Duval Frey and Ethelbert B. Frey, attorney.

Justice Adkins found that the present Mrs. Frey had obtained a divorce in Virginia through fraud, and that she had therefore never been legally divorced from her first husband, Richard R. Allen. Frey and his wife were married in Baltimore in 1927.

Wood Denies He Owes Debt for Sale of Land

Denying he had engaged Perry Barker, Boston civil engineer, to aid him in selling some properties, George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., yesterday asserted he did not owe Mr. Barker $20,000 as a part commission on a sale.

He has not been in the business of buying and selling coal properties, which were the ones mentioned in Mr. Barker's suit, since January 1, 1930, Mr. Wood said, through Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and Rudolph Yeatman. A general denial is made that Mr. Barker had rendered Mr. Wood any services for which he is now liable. The answer is to a suit brought by Mr. Barker, in which he claimed Wood owed him $20,000 for his part in assisting in the sale of some coal properties in Portland, Me., and Boston.

PLAY for Kiddies but WORK for Mother

Now She Uses Manhattan . . . Where Net Bags Protect the Clothes and Save Her Money!

LITTLE Mary's having a grand time! But mother's wise smile tells a different story . . . one of weariness and worry. She knows Mary will soon find out that washday is no fun!

She remembers how it used to rob her of vitality and charm. And even after she hired a washwoman there remained endless worries—annoying delays, drab, faded clothes and embarrassing clotheslines. No wonder she chose the laundry that would banish all that!

Manhattan even saves her money by saving her clothes. Soft Net Bags keep out the wear that wears clothes out. Gentle suds of pure Palm Oil Soap and floods of soft, filtered water rinse away every trace of dirt—without rubbing. That's why her things wear longer now.

And they're returned in three short days—instead of four or more—thanks to Manhattan's modern methods.

Call Decatur 1120 just as Mary's mother did. Our representative will explain Manhattan's many money-saving services . . . help you choose one that fits your needs and your purse. Protect your health and happiness against weary washday.

Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes

VIRGINIA OFFICE: WILSON BOULEVARD AND MILITARY ROAD, ROSSLYN, VIRGINIA

MODERN LAUNDRY EXPERT EXPLAINS "NET BAG SYSTEM"

Tells How Manhattan Saves You Money By Saving Your Clothes

Present-day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System of washing.

Manhattan Laundry adopted the Net Bag for washing clothes six years ago. Clothes, they agreed, could be washed just as clean in net bags and would wear longer if rubbing and scrubbing were eliminated.

Manhattan's famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material and placed in individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subjected to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrate each garment and loosen every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every trace of dirt from the clothes and leaving the fabrics refreshed and clean. They are then dried, starched where necessary and ironed by the most modern methods.

That clothes wear longer and look better when washed in Net Bags has been proven by test after test. For instance, two shirts, exactly the same, were washed fifty times each, one in a net bag, the other by hand. At the end of the test the net-bag washed shirt showed absolutely no signs of wear, while the hand-washed shirt had become a sad combination of rough edges, torn seams and broken buttons. Other tests on all sorts of wearing apparel are being carried on regularly and in every case show the Net Bag System to be far superior in preserving the original sheen of the cloth. At Manhattan the Nets Get the Wear and the Clothes Get the Wash.

Enthusiastic Customer Praises Net Bag System

In a recent letter to the Manhattan Laundry Mrs. E. R. D. writes:

". . . . But the one actual fact that pleases me most is that the clothes do not show as much wear as they did when I had my laundry done at home. . . . It is indeed a pleasure to recommend you. . . ."

This letter is typical of the many received by Manhattan from satisfied customers throughout the District of Columbia and Virginia.

Such letters bear out Manhattan's claim that "Net Bag Laundering Saves You Money by Saving Your Clothes."

Three-Day Collection And Delivery Service

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. You know when you'll get your clothes when Manhattan has them. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.

Services To Fit Every Need And Every Purpose

Manhattan offers the housewife a wide selection of economical services—from Complete Finished Family to individual piece work. There is a service to fit every need and purse, and every service receives Net Bag Care.

Damp Wash is the most inexpensive service of all. It costs only 5 cents a pound, and as small as an 80-cent bundle can be sent. Clothes are returned damp, ready for the line. THRIF-T is another inexpensive service. Flat pieces are all ironed, but the wearing apparel is returned damp. Only 8 cents a pound with a minimum bundle of $1.

In the Rough Dry all the flat pieces are ironed, wearing apparel comes back ready to be ironed at home. Minimum bundle, 75 cents, only 10 cents a pound. In Economy another popular service, everything is machine ironed, including flat work, and returned ready for use. Men's shirts, 10 cents each additional. Few other articles may need retouching. Minimum, $1.25, only 12 cents a pound.

All Ironed Ready to Use. This covers all classes of Family Finished Laundry Service. These Ready-to-Wear services are reasonably priced according to the degree of niceties required. Our telephone operators will be glad to give any information regarding them.

There are many other Manhattan services to serve the housewife's every need. Shirts and Collars, Table and Bed Linens, Blankets, Rugs, Curtains and Dry Cleaning and Dyeing. All are economical. And the Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes.

RUM AGENT PLACING ASSAILED BY CLANCY

Member of House Declares That National Scandal Is Clearly Indicated.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Clancy, of Michigan, said last night "a national scandal in prohibition enforcement is clearly indicated by the analysis of the disposition of prohibition enforcement officers."

Predicating his assertion on a recently published statement of the Crusaders, antiprohibition organization, the Detroit Republican, in a formal statement, said, "The vast majority of illegal distilleries and breweries are located in 'dry' States rather than 'wet.'"

Mr. Clancy said high prohibition enforcement officials "privately admit" that they know that by far the greater proportion of liquor consumed in the United States is manufactured in Southern and what are known as the Southern Border States."

He assailed Prohibition Director Woodcock for assignment of "657 prohibition agents" to the Detroit area when the amount of liquor coming over the Canadian border is "infinitesimal."

"However," he added, "it is very refreshing to me to have gotten a pledge within the last few days from the Treasury Department that they will immediately take out of the Detroit district a large proportion of the 149 border patrolmen and transfer them to the South, where they admit the conditions are extremely bad."

Mr. Clancy referred to the Mexican border, where he said large amounts of liquor and large numbers of aliens were being smuggled across.

RUPTURE Specialist

WHERE OTHERS FAIL WE SUCCEED

Our "Common Sense" Supports for Rupture Are Entirely Different From All Others.

Different in Principle, Material, Construction and Application. Patients' Hours, 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Evenings by Appointment.

CONSIDER THESE FACTS

WE DO NOT employ steel springs, elastic belts, adhesive plasters or under straps, as they are not sanitary, comfortable or necessary in treating hernia.

WE DO GUARANTEE

To return and retain the rupture at once to the comfort and safety of the patient. WE MAKE NO CHARGE, ACCEPT NO MONEY UNTIL THE PATIENT IS SATISFIED.

A CORRECTLY CONSTRUCTED AND PROPERLY FITTED SUPPORT WILL HOLD YOUR RUPTURE.

For More Than Sixty Years The Dependable Common Sense Truss has given a feeling of security, a sense of comfort to our patients.

In 1877 Heaton and Davenport, M.D., Published "The Cure of Rupture."

This book is now in the Boston Public Library and on page 151, they say: "There are many styles and patterns of trusses. I myself most frequently made use of the 'Common sense' truss. This truss is also exclusively used by the United States Government. The manufacturers have had their factories established in Boston for many years."

During All These Years

We have been content with a steadily increasing local business, but now we are sending experienced representatives to the larger cities throughout the country to demonstrate our supports.

We want everybody afflicted with hernia to know the comfort and safety of the Common Sense Truss. It has no steel springs to bind, no elastic belt to interfere with circulation, no under straps to annoy, no buckles or other harness to adjust. It is easy to apply, comfortable and secure. It costs nothing to investigate—sometimes it is quite worth while.

Examinations free. No charges for treatment unless patient experiences immediate and satisfactory relief.

Doak Beseeches Employed to Buy

Secretary Pleads Against Hoarding of Money by Workers.

(Associated Press.)

Resumption of normal buying by the employed was urged last night by Secretary Doak as a means to combat the depression.

"It is immaterial," the Secretary of Labor said in a radio address over the National Broadcasting Co. system, "whether we ascribe existing conditions to overdevelopment, or underconsumption, but it is essential that the vast majority of our people, those whose incomes are unimpaired, should pursue their normal living and should not be frightened into hoarding."

"Great building and highway construction projects are under way," he added, "and with each succeeding month I feel more and more assured we shall see a gratifying increase in the number of regularly employed workers. For they, at once, in turn, become purchasers and thus make for further employment."

Just lift the FLAP to open THE HUMIDOR PACK

1 Do not tear Cellophane. Look for the convenient flap at the top and back of package

Don't look for premiums or coupons, as the cost of the tobaccos blended in CAMEL Cigarettes prohibits the use of them.

2 Simply lift this flap and you will break the specially devised air-seal

Don't look for premiums or coupons, as the cost of the tobaccos blended in CAMEL Cigarettes prohibits the use of them.

3 Hold package as shown and with your thumbs push it part way out of Humidor Pack

4 To avoid tearing tin foil, slip first finger of each hand under Revenue stamp and break it

5 Help yourself to a fresh cigarette, then slide package back into its Humidor Pack

6 Close package. It guards Camels from dust and germs and provides sanitary protection

THE moment you open the new Camel Humidor Pack you begin to note the advantages of this new, scientific and sanitary method of wrapping Camel cigarettes.

At once you are greeted with the delightful aroma that comes from choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos in prime condition.

Your sense of touch also detects the freshness of Camels, for unlike moisture-robbed cigarettes Camels are pliable to the fingers.

But the real difference comes when you light a Camel and inhale its cool, fragrant smoke.

Cigarettes brought to you so perfectly conditioned deserve to be kept that way in your pocket.

The simplest way to insure this is to open the Camel Humidor Pack as shown above.

That will keep intact the mildness and freshness that is making the whole country say: "Now I'd walk two miles for a Camel because they're twice as good."

If you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack, switch over for just one day.

Then go back tomorrow, if you can.

Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!

HOOVER WILL CONFER IN CAMP ON RAPIDAN

First Meeting With Heads of Departments to Be Held This Week-End.

(Associated Press.)

The first of a number of conferences with executives of the various Government departments will be held by President Hoover at his Rapidan camp this week-end.

The War Department and its problems will be the subject of the first conference. Mr. Hoover expects to take up a different department each week he goes to the Rapidan and invite the Cabinet members as well as the heads of the different bureaus to his mountain camp.

Secretary and Mrs. Hurley, Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Payne, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Mosely, assistant chief of staff; Chief of Army Engineers and Mrs. Brown, the Quartermaster General and Mrs. Dewitt, Chairman Wood of the House appropriations committee, Earl Kinsley, Republican national committeeman for Vermont, and Mrs. Kinsley, have been invited to go to the Rapidan over the week-end.

Lawrence Richey and Theodore Joslin, secretaries to the President, and Mrs. Joslin also will be at the camp.

The public works phase of War Department activities will be given special attention at the conference. Mr. Hoover expects to get a complete report of progress on the inland waterways, various forms of construction work carried on under the War Department, and Mississippi flood control.

Waiter Horrified as Pup Pilfers Egg From Hoover

Broadcaster, Describing White House Breakfast, Says Children Clamber Onto Presidential Lap, Followed by Hungry, Flap-Eared, Gangly Dog.

(Associated Press.)

How a White House puppy sitting on President Hoover's lap at the breakfast table pilfered a fried egg from the Chief Executive's plate was described last night by Edwin Alger (pseudonym of Jay Jerome Williams, president of the Independent Syndicate and resident of Arlington County, Va.), radio reporter for the National Broadcasting Co.

Alger, in a radio address over the National system, told of his experiences while spending a day at the White House.

"What if—as happened the morning of the day I visited the White House," he said, "a small girl of 5 and her younger brother swarm onto their grandfather's lap, and after them and onto the same lap leaps a flop-eared and gangly puppy dog, while the grandfather is seated at the breakfast table?

"Grandfathers' laps were made for that purpose, too. In the case of this particular grandfather, a whole long night had passed since they had seen him, and this is their method of greeting him.

"But the puppy dog, I am sorry to relate, succumbs to temptation. From his point of view of vantage he can see—yes, and can reach—the presidential plate, and while a horrified waiter looks on helplessly a lightning-like snip is made and a carefully fried egg, prepared for President Hoover himself, disappears into that bottomless pit that is every puppy dog's stomach."

Alger related also that President Hoover keeps in one of the drawers of his office desk "a glass jar containing an apparently inexhaustible supply of sticks of peppermint candy" for his three grandchildren now at the White House.

Compensation Due In Death by Heat

Justice Reverses Ruling of Commission in Mrs. Burris' Plea.

A worker exposed to hot sun rays and who suffers thereby a sunstroke from which death results is entitled to protection of the workman's compensation act, Justice Jennings Bailey ruled yesterday. The case involved an attempt by Mrs. Emma Burris to collect compensation for the death of her husband, Allen F. Burris, last August.

The testimony was that the man was working in the street, and while so occupied was stricken with an illness later diagnosed as sunstroke. The ruling was based upon the finding that, although the risk may be common to all exposed to the sun's rays, the question is "whether the employment exposes the employe to the risk."

Mrs. Burris applied to the United States Employes Compensation Commission and was denied an award for the death of her husband. The ruling by Justice Bailey reverses the commission and directs that she be paid. Attorney John J. Slattery represented Mrs. Burris.

Wife Paid Tribute By Mohun's Will

Barry Mohun, prominent attorney, who died here April 16, leaving an estate of $141,286.31, paid an unusual tribute to his wife, Mrs. Nora M. Mohun, in the phrasing of his will, which was filed for probate yesterday.

In the will Mr. Mohun, after pointing out that he left the bulk of his estate to his "beloved wife," says that the word "beloved" was not used in a perfunctory manner, but was, instead, used in a literal sense. "Of my dear wife I truly say, in the words of the immortal Gladstone, 'It would not be possible to enfold in words the value of the gifts which the bounty of God has conferred on me through my wife.'"

The executors of the estate are C. F. R. Ogilby and Mrs. Mohun. A daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Coburn, is left $1,000, and a watch and chain is left to a son, Harry Mohun, jr. Mr. Mohun was a member of the law firm of Mohun & Elliott. He owned the premises at 2362 Massachusetts avenue northwest, which he also left to the wife.

21 Billions Seen As Veterans' Fund

Hines, in Carolina Speech, Says Total Will Be Reached by 1953.

Columbia, S. C., May 5 (A.P.).—Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, today predicted in an address to the South Carolina General Assembly that the cost of veterans' relief by 1953 will have reached $21,000,000,000.

"We will undoubtedly," he said, "have to face the problem of pensions for World War veterans."

"When you realize that 31 per cent of the Federal income tax is expended on veterans' relief, you realize something of the problem."

Mr. Hines came here to inspect possible sites for the proposed South Carolina Veterans' Hospital.

Customs Union Hit By Little Entente

France, Britain, Supported in Plan to Ask Hague Tribunal Ruling.

Bucharest, Roumania, May 5 (A.P.).—A resolution expressing hostility to the proposed Austro-German Customs Union was passed at the final session of the Little Entente today.

The delegates decided also to support France and Great Britain in their contention that The Hague tribunal should decide whether the projected accord violates existing treaties.

They adopted another resolution to the effect that Czechoslovakia should forego collection of duties on Roumanian and Jugoslavian agricultural products in return for preference duties on her manufactured articles.

Edith Mason at Dinner With Divorced Husband

Milan, Italy, May 5 (A.P.).—Edith Mason, American singer, arrived from Genoa tonight with her former husband, Giorgio Polacco, once director of the Chicago Opera company, and their daughter.

The three dined together. Mutual friends here expressed hope that their meeting indicated a reconciliation and possibly a remarriage. They were divorced two years ago.

Slemp Represents U. S. At French Exposition

Paris, May 5 (A.P.).—France's International Colonial Exposition at Vincennes Park will be opened tomorrow by President Gaston Doumergue. The exposition will continue until the last of October.

The United States will be represented at the opening by C. Bascom Slemp, commissioner general for the exposition, and Charles H. Burke, his assistant. The exposition unites the world's efforts in colonization. It is estimated that it will cost France and the six foreign countries participating $30,000,000.

Firm Here Enters Low Bid on Shepherd School

Loudoun-Rust Co., of Washington, was low bidder yesterday afternoon on the construction of the Alexander Shepherd School, to be erected at Fourteenth street and Kalmia road northwest. The estimate was $93,865, while the amount available is $109,978. Eleven bids were opened.

The lowest of five bids on the construction of sheds for farmers at the Eastern and Western markets was submitted by Bahen & Wright, of Washington, with an estimate of $10,450. This bid, as do all the estimates, exceeds the amount available, which is $9,927.79; hence all bids probably will be rejected and the job readvertised.

Right of Intervention In Suit Is Questioned

Right of Harlan Wood, local attorney, to intervene in a suit between Francis R. Roberts, inventor, and the Air Mail Apparatus Corporation of America, is attacked in an answer to Mr. Wood's petition for leave to intervene.

Attorney Harry S Barger, for Mr. Roberts, points out to the court that Mr. Wood should not have filed his petition in equity court. Moreover, he says, Mr. Wood failed to make clear in his petition just what he will try to prove at the trial. The intervening suit by Mr. Wood claimed that he had been assigned 49 per cent of the patent rights in an air mail stamp vending machine invented by Roberts.

Maj. Cotton Off to Join Hunt for Lost Explorer

Hull, England, May 5 (A.P.).—Maj. Sidney Cotton sailed for Iceland tonight on the steamer Dettifoss with the airplane in which he will join in the search for Augustine Courtauld, British explorer, missing on Greenland's ice cap.

Cotton expects to reach Reykjavik, Iceland, Sunday. He will make that city his base instead of Angmagsalik, on the border of the Greenland ice barrier, where Capt. Albin Ahrenberg already has landed with another rescue plane.

VILLA ROMA LICENSE ISSUANCE PROTESTED

business circles of Washington. He said patrons were required to maintain an orderly demeanor and that the only noise which could be heard outside was a five-piece orchestra's music, which could not be heard far enough away to disturb the neighbors.

Mrs. D. C. Will, who lives across the road from the Villa Roma, told the commissioners that she resides nearer than any of the complainants and that she had never been disturbed by the night club, even during a spell of sickness, and that she had observed it to be operated in a law-abiding manner. The community singing, she said, was a rare occasion, and had happened only when fraternities and sororities had given a banquet and dance at the club.

Similar singing is done in clubs throughout the county, Mrs. Will said, and in hotels and similar places in Washington, and none of these places had been refused license to operate for this reason.

Mr. Abbo stated that he had been operating the Villa Roma for five years and that he has an investment of $90,000 in the property which he would lose if he is refused the permit by the commissioners. His attorney, George P. Lem, of Washington, also spoke highly of the conduct of the business.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child, make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

ADVANCED FRIGIDAIRE REFRIGERATION

To a Man

about to forsake the blessings of bachelorhood -- for a Bigger and Better State

When the last grain of rice has long since taken reluctant leave of your wardrobe and you have almost learned to say "My Wife" without turning an internal somersault . . . you will have to make up your mind to face the serious side of married life.

Suppose for instance, the Bride should ask you: "Dearest, which electric refrigerator do you think we should buy?"

Man to man, could you select any one of the many good ones on the market with any real show of rhyme or reason?

Now, of course, you are bound to have electric refrigeration in your home, so why not look into it now?

Among others, we'd like to have you familiarize yourself with Frigidaire which has been, during the past fifteen years, responsible for improvements that have made domestic refrigeration so healthful, convenient and economical.

We are quite sure that she would like the Frigidaire model shown here. It has many features not to be found in any other refrigerator.

Aristocratic white Porcelain the only finish that could meet the high standards of Frigidaire

In ancient China, long before the Ming Dynasty, potters discovered the amazing fact that by increasing the use of fire a baked clay vessel became as hard as stone. This was the birth of porcelain, which was destined to give the world so many art treasures that have retained their beauty to this time.

And today lasting beauty is an important feature of every new Frigidaire. For this advanced refrigerator is distinguished by a sparkling finish of pure white Porcelain-on-steel inside and out.

This is an example of Frigidaire construction throughout...construction that embodies many features which set Frigidaire apart from all other refrigerators.

Water turns to ice with amazing speed when you set the convenient Cold Control. Even wilted vegetables become crisp again in the famous Hydrator. Ice cubes tumble from the Quickube Ice Tray with just a slight pressure of your finger tips.

And added to these outstanding advantages are elevated shelves . . . a flat service-shelf top . . . and a quiet, concealed, surplus-powered unit that uses current only a few minutes each hour.

Visit our showroom and let us give you a complete demonstration. Any Frigidaire can be bought on convenient terms arranged to suit the purchaser.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DANCING EYES

TRAIN dispatchers have developed a new disease and in order that their rights shall be preserved, they have supplied the name as well as the disease. Train dispatcher's nystagmus is a disorder of the eyeball muscles. The soubrettes of another day had a song about making "goo goo" eyes, or something like that. The dictionary definition of "goo goo" eyes is not exactly satisfactory, but, as well as we can judge, the train dispatchers' malady comes as near being "goo goo" eyes as possible for train dispatchers. In nystagmus the eyes move something like the tremble in paralysis agitans, or palsy.

There are six muscles which move the eyeballs in different directions. If these are working perfectly the eyeballs are held steady in the direction of vision. If the muscles are out of balance an eyeball may "cross" or turn outward or up and down. In nystagmus there is a certain, almost constant jerking movement of the eyeballs. The best known form is miner's nystagmus. This develops in miners, and especially in coal miners as the result of working in cramped positions and by poor, flickering light, long hours through long years.

Train dispatchers have charge of the movements of trains. They handle about two messages a minute to and from trains. A conductor reports where his train is, the dispatcher receives the report, decides what the train is to do, gives his order to the conductor, and enters the information on the work sheet which lies before him, all within thirty seconds. The sheet is ruled into small squares. He must be constantly moving this sheet, finding the appropriate squares and making entries. His eyeball muscles get tired. In the course of time they develop the eye dance that is known as train dispatcher's nystagmus.

Dr. C. P. McCord, who conducted an investigation, found that about two-thirds of train dispatchers on heavy "tricks" have it. Unlike miner's nystagmus, the eyes roll only to the sides. They never dance up and down or on a slant. Again, unlike miner's nystagmus, the condition is liable to develop after a year or two of hard work. The disorder in miners comes only after some twenty years of labor. Still unlike miner's nystagmus, this trouble is not very grave. A reasonably good rest should cure a given case.

Train dispatchers are also somewhat deaf in the left ear, as a rule. This results from the noisy condition under which they work, aided somewhat by the steady wearing of an ear piece. However, no relation between the ear trouble and the eye disorder has been proved.

TYPHOID FEVER.

N. R. writes:

1 How does paratyphoid differ from ordinary typhoid?

2 How should a person with paratyphoid be dieted?

3 Is the nursing the same as that for typhoid?

REPLY

1. It is caused by one of the paratyphoid bacilli. These are akin to typhoid bacilli but differ from them somewhat. The course of paratyphoid may be very similar to that of typhoid. However, some cases have not much more than diarrhea and vomiting. In others the fever lacks the regularity of typhoid. There is not the same danger of hemorrhage. The diagnosis is generally made by a Widal test and a bacterial blood culture.

2. In those cases where the symptoms are much like those of typhoid, the diet should be the modern typhoid diet. This is much more liberal than the typhoid of twenty years ago.

3. About the same.

YANKEES BATTER 4 PITCHERS IN ROUTING NATS, 18-8

Eastern Near 4th Baseball Crown

Score All Runs in Second to Defeat Central, 5-2.

Lanahan Is Effective Despite Walks; Errors Cut Figure.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

PUERILITY at the bat in the pinches, and two notable "bonehead" plays, cost Central its golden opportunity to halt the long reign of Eastern High in baseball yesterday, and the Lincoln Park school won its fifteenth consecutive high school series game, extending over a period of four years. About 1,000 scholastic fans filled a portion of Eastern Stadium to view the 5-2 defeat of Central.

By its victory Eastern virtually clinches its fourth straight title, its lone remaining opponent being the error-ridden Western team, to be met next Tuesday in an anticlimatic contest.

As it has done twice before this year, Eastern won the ball game in one inning. Yesterday it was the second session when a flurry of five hits—by Snyder, Fitzpatrick, Pusateri, Kessler and McAboy—brought home five tallies. The rally was aided measurably by Thompson's bad judgment of Snyder's fly, which went for a triple, and by Miller's unaccountable dropping of a peg from Heflin, which permitted Fitzpatrick to glide into second safely and Moore to gain first.

Errors Handicap De Bettencourt.

Jack de Bettencourt, Central hurler, did a presentable piece of work with the job left him by the delinquent Emmett Buscher. But for the errors of Thompson and Miller he might have pitched on even terms with Dick Lanahan, the winning twirler, throughout. De Bettencourt permitted nine hits, five of which came in the second. Snyder's scratch single, his third of the game, was the only Eastern hit in the last four innings.

A multiplicity of walks had Dick Lanahan in fairly warm water throughout the game. He issued 11 Arnie Oakleys in all, but allowed only four solid blows, one of which was the longest homer of the series, by Raub, a substitute for the scholastically ineligible Colliflower. The ball cleared Calevas' head in left field by 30 feet and rolled nearly to the end of the long Eastern field. One was out, and no one was on base.

Thompson Fails To Touch Base.

Steve Thompson was guilty of another Babe Herman act which hurt Central when, in the first inning, he knocked a tremendous liner to right center, scoring Cooke, and then failed to touch third base on his lope home. He was credited with a double, but his blunder retired the side. Thompson's other acts during the game consisted of striking out once and rolling out weakly twice, with an aggregate of six men on bases.

Central filled the bases in the seventh and eighth innings but White popped to second base to end the seventh and Kiernan drove a 30 foot fly to short stop to do the same in the eighth.

Sweetland, of Cubs, Holds Reds to 7 Hits

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Les Sweetland was never in much danger this afternoon as he pitched the Chicago Cubs to an 8 to 4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the second game of the series. Sweetland allowed but seven hits, while the Cubs pounded Frey and Benton for all their runs in the first three innings.

The entire Cub team was in on the hitting except Hornsby, and the manager walked three times in four trips to the plate. Nick Cullop did most of the Cincinnati hitting, getting three blows, one a triple. It was the fourth consecutive Cub victory of the year over the eighth place Redlegs.

WOOD LOSES, 6-0, 14-12, TO SHIELDS

Last of U. S. Wins in Mexico Followed by Exhibition.

MEXICO CITY, May 5 (A.P.).—The United States tucked away the final two matches of its Davis Cup series with Mexico today to make the count five matches to none and then sent out two of its youngsters to play the most exciting tennis of the last five days.

Frank X. Shields, of New York, who played the major role in the United States victory, and Sidney B. Wood, jr., also of New York, staged an exhibition after the final two Davis Cup singles and battled as though the Davis Cup instead of the Chapultepec Cup depended on it through two torrid sets.

Shields won 6—0, 14—12, but he was as exhausted as his victim when the match was completed.

Wood, playing his best form, was unable to win a game in the first set but he settled down to business in the second and it was a fight for every point.

Shields Victor Over Acosta.

Previously, Shields defeated Manuel Acosta, in straight sets 6—3, 6—0, 6—3, and Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., defeated Ricardo Tapia, Mexico's first ranking player, 6—4, 6—3, 6—2. Each had earlier won a singles match in the series while Shields and Wood won the doubles.

The United States team will leave for home tonight. It will meet Canada in the North American zone final at Montreal May 21, 22 and 23.

Detroit Defeated, 7-3, On Chisox's Long Hits

Detroit, Mich., May 5 (A.P.).—Long-distance hitting, eleven hits going for 22 bases won the Chicago White Sox the second game of its series with the Tigers, 7-3, here today.

The Sox collected four triples and three doubles at the expense of three Tiger hurlers, none of whom was effective. Frazier, the Sox's starting pitcher, yielded seven hits and all the Tiger runs in the 4 2-3 innings he pitched. The Tigers were helpless before Urban Faber, relief hurler, whose spitter was breaking at baffling angles. Watwood, who had a perfect day, and Fothergill each contributed a triple and a double to the Sox hitting orgy.

Fitzsimmons Yields 3 Hits in Blanking Robins

Brooklyn, May 5 (A.P.).—Only one Brooklyn player got as far as second base off Freddie Fitzsimmons today and the Giants made it two out of three over the Robins, 8 to 0. Fitzsimmons allowed only three scattered hits in pitching his fourth consecutive victory. Lefty Clark was pounded hard by the Giants.

Frederick, who tripled in the eighth, was the lone Robin to get past first base.

Southern Golf Play Slated to Start June 16

Atlanta, Ga., May 5 (A.P.).—The Southern amateur golf championship for 1931 will be played June 16 through June 20 over the Country Club course at Chattanooga, Tenn., Lowry Arnold, president of the Southern Golf Association, said here today.

Chattanooga was chosen some time ago as the site of the tournament, but the dates for the annual tournament were not announced until today.

75 by Noyes, Tops Play at Woodmont

Army Major Leads Bones, Miller by 2 in Qualifying.

Many Stars in Field for Second Day of Golf Tourney.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

MAJ. E. A. NOYES, of the Army-Navy Club, yesterday led a field of approximately 100 players who competed in the first day of the qualification round of the annual spring invitation tournament of the Woodmont Club. His total of 39—36—75 was six strokes over par, and his nearest competitors were Thomas P. Bones, jr., Columbia, and George F. Miller, Bannockburn, each with 77.

Maj. Noyes' outward nine was marred by four misadventures, each one costing him a stroke over par. He three-putted the third green, missed his drive on the sixth and then took three putts, while a missed putt on the par 3 eighth hole and failure to be home with his second shot on the ninth brought his total to 39. His inward nine started with a birdie 3 on the tenth, but he lost a stroke on the fourteenth, when he was short on his approach on the sixteenth, when he took three from off the green and on the final home, when he again needed three putts to hole out. His card:

Drain Among Field Qualifying Today.

Whether 75 will win the medal will be determined by today's play, for among the contestants today are James G. Drain, the 20-year-old winner of the Washington tournament; Walter R. McCallum, the medalist in that event; Howard Nordlinger, champion of the Woodmont Club; John C. Shorey, former District junior champion and the Bannockburn Club champion, and many other well-known golfers.

Conditions were ideal for scoring yesterday, but predicted showers for today may affect the play. There are now 6 players with cards of 80 and under and 32 who are 88 and under. Four sixteens, 64 in all, will qualify.

Harry G. Pitt, Manor, who played yesterday, could not do better than 82, a disastrous 7 on the first hole, due to a missed second shot and encounters with a trap, giving him a handicap which he could not overcome.

Bones Loses Chance On Inward Nine.

Tom Bones had a score of 36 on the first nine, due to five single putts, two 2-putt greens and two holes, the third and fifth, when he did not have to putt, chipping into the cup from off the green, a total of nine putts. He was less fortunate on his return journey, scoring 41. The scores under 100 were as follows:

75—Maj. E. A. Noyes, Army-Navy.
77—Thomas P. Bones, jr., Columbia; George F. Miller, Manor.
78—James D. Hermann, Washington.

Rookie Hero as Braves Beat Phillies in Ninth

Boston, May 5 (A.P.).—A ninth-inning rally featuring a home run, triple and single, gave the Boston Braves two runs and a 5-to-4 victory over the Phillies today.

With his team behind, 4 to 3, "Red" Worthington hit a home run. Johnny Neun produced a single and Clise Dudley, Philly pitcher, was relieved by Lil Stoner. Wes Schulmerich, who made his National League debut yesterday, then tripled to right center, scoring Neun with the winning run.

Schulmerich also hit a home run in the sixth and Buzz Arlett, Philly right fielder, made his fourth circuit clout of the season in the third with a runner on base.

Cards Send Hafey To Danville to Train

St. Louis, May 5 (A.P.).—Charles "Chick" Hafey, slugging Cardinal outfielder, who was a holdout until April 23, when he accepted the Cardinal offer of $12,500 for one year, signed a contract this morning and was sent to Danville, Ill., to get into condition on the Cardinal farm there.

President Sam Breadon said he wanted to be sure Hafey is in good condition to play base ball and ordered him to report to Scout Joe Sugden at Danville. When Sugden thinks Hafey is in proper condition the outfielder will be permitted to join the Red Birds probably in Philadelphia next Monday.

CREMA, without a doubt, can lay claim to being the tallest human in the world. Beside him, Carnera, his fellow countryman, would look like a midget. Recently married in Turin, Italy, Crema's bride was of average height, but she weighed 400 pounds.

"Scotty," the cat that came back, traveled from Rush Hill, Mo., which is 135 miles northwest of St. Louis, all the way to Rochester, N. Y., a distance of 1,000 miles. Left behind when her owners moved, the cat covered the entire distance with nothing to guide her except her "feline instinct."

RISKO WINS BOUT WITH BAER

Coast Youth Is Outpunched in 10-Round Encounter.

CLEVELAND, May 5 (A.P.).—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, won a decision over Max Baer, of Los Angeles, in a ten-round bout here tonight.

The bout was a mauling affair for the most part, with Risko landing the soldier punches. During the first few seconds the battling was even with the Coast youth trying ineffectively to ward off the punches that the clowning Risko shot from all angles.

Risko pounded Baer with rights and lefts mostly to the body, while the latter aimed chiefly at the jaw of the Cleveland baker boy.

Baer landed solidly in the fifth round, socking Johnny with a hard right to the body and tthree jolting blows to the head. He outfought Risko at close range until Risko punched two straight hard blows to Max's middle in the sixth round.

In both the eighth and tenth rounds, Baer wrestled Risko to the floor in clinches, but the latter landed the cleanest blows.

C. U. and Gallaudet In Dual Meet Today

The first of three college track and field meets here this week will be held this afternoon in Brookland Stadium as Catholic University and Gallaudet College renew their rivalry. Action starts at 3 o'clock.

Both Catholic and Gallaudet have stronger than usual track teams this season, but the home team probably is too good for the Blues, who will be making their debut. Catholic has split even in two meets thus far, winning from Johns Hopkins and losing to Maryland.

Webb's Homer Robs Mack Ace of Shutout in 4-1 Win.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5 (A.P.).—With George Earnshaw striking out ten batters, the Athletics evened the series here with the Boston Red Sox today by winning the second game, 4 to 1.

Earl Webb's home run in the seventh inning robbed Earnshaw of a shut out, and ended his string of 16 successive scoreless innings.

Mule Haas hit a triple and double, scored two of the Mack runs, and drove in a third as the star of the victors' assault on Pitcher Durham and his successors on the mound.

Columbia Revises Sports System Under Butler Plan

NEW YORK, May 5 (A.P.).—Columbia University already has taken the first steps toward carrying out the plan for endowed athletics proposed by President Nicholas Murray Butler in his annual report last November.

A complete shakeup in the control of athletics, bringing intercollegiate sport under the direct control of the university, was announced today with the added news that it is hoped to end the emphasis now placed upon gate receipts from football and that the cost of athletic work "may be met by

ELECTION DAY WINS PIMLICO NURSERY BY A HEAD

Hitt Juvenile Outgames Favorite

Crowd Hard Hit as Ladder, 1-2, Is Third to Flaming.

King's Crier Winner of Chase as Only 6 of 20 Finish.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 5.—Mrs. K. E. Hitt's homebred colt, Election Day, won the Pimlico Nursery stakes for 2-year-olds at its twenty-third renewal here today, getting a head decision over Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Stepen Fetchit, the favorite. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Viking was third. The value of the stake to winner was $6,150. They ran the four and a half furlongs in 0:54 2-5. This was a second behind the record. The winner paid $15.70.

Eleven 2-year-olds contested for this prize. It was a fact that many Baltimoreans wagered on Election Day because of a mayoralty election today in Baltimore. Stepen Fetchit was backed as if he was already home. E. Watters made a strong finish on the winner. Coming into the stretch Sun Viking was in front, with Election Day and Stepen Fetchit fastest in pursuit. Election Day was running on the outside and in the final drive while already leading, just managed to hold his narrow margin. Sun Viking was quitting slightly, but was only a neck behind the others.

12,000 Hard Hit by Ladder's Defeat.

There was a crowd of fully 12,000 out on a perfect day for the racing. There was much Preakness talk, and when Ladder was beaten in the fourth race, the public was hit hard in the pocketbook. He was the shortest priced horse of the afternoon and Monel in the third race the longest priced of the meeting.

Walter J. Salmon's Preakness and Derby candidate, a 1-to-2 shot, tasted defeat in the Pikesville purse when he attempted to beat older horses. The winner was the Belair Stud's 4-year-old Flaming, which, laying off the early pace, outran Colossal and Ladder in the stretch. Ladder led to the turn into the stretch. Colossal was giving him a hard race, then took the lead, but both the leaders were victims of the surprising rush of Flaming. The time was 1:45 2-5. Flaming paid $24.30.

English-Bred Monel Wins at $110.90.

Maryland's Own, a purse for 2-year-olds foiled in Maryland, brought eleven to the starting gate. S. W. Labrot's Monel, by Sir Greysteel—Lamuiron, English breeding, finished first by a length and a half at $110.90 for $2. Pegg, on the Labrot filly, rode Workman close on Jaffa, heavily played. There was expectation on the part of thec rowd of a disqualification. The stewards sent for Workman, who finished second, and he satisfied the stewards that Monel had Jaffa beaten when the close riding took place, and the finish was made official, the third going to Lilly Bet. Jaffa led to the stretch. Lady Norris unseated her rider, McGinnis, and another delay threw the races late.

6 of 20 Jumpers Finish As King's Crier Wins.

The Linsted Steeplechase drew a field of twenty maiden jumpers for the 2-mile chase. The Fox Catcher Farm's King's Crier won, with Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Contrition running a close second. The Dorwood Stable's Kiang was third and Faro fourth. Six horses of the twenty finished. There was a large crowd in the infield to view the race, and when three horses fell at the last hedge, the crowd rushed to the scene, and it appeared that Taurus had rolled on another jockey.

Horses which had lost their riders were running helter-skelter over the field, some getting on the main track. Coq-Gris, the favorite, belonging to Mrs. John Hay Whitney, was among the first to fall. Capt. Hook, another favorite, ran out. Next heavily played horse to come to grief was F. J. Buchanan's Warrior Bold. He was second when he took a plunge at the near turn on the second time around.

The winner paid $9.90. Time, 3:50 2-5. The running of the steeplechase filled the clubhouse.

E. Ball, who rode Fair Bob, and C. Monahan, on Forrester, were sent to a hospital. R. Russell's hand was injured. G. H. Bostwick, on Oakland, escaped injury.

After a long delay at the barrier, in which Staylor unseated Legare, and Fourth Ward lunged through the gate, the field was off to a good start in the first race, which was won by L. J. Brown's Bluch Dineen.

Latter, a keen factor from the break, forced a fast pace and looked to have the winner beaten at the top of home stretch, hung when final test came.

WAKE FOREST'S ERRORS HELP G. U. TO 8-4 VICTORY

TODD STATE LIBRARY

Deacons Fail To Hold 4-2 Lead in 7th

Toss Ball Wildly in 8th as Hilltoppers Score 5 Runs.

Carolinians 3 Times Take 2 Bases on Infield Outs.

WAKE FOREST'S Deacons are sure on their feet, but their hands are as unsteady as a drunken man in a gale. At least, so it seemed yesterday as they lost a ball game to Georgetown University, 8 to 4, on Hilltop Field.

Running the bases like demons instead of Deacons, the North Carolinians made the best of their opportunities to gather a 4-2 lead before the Hilltoppers went to bat in the seventh. Then they began to demonstrate perfectly the wrong thing to do on defense, with the result that Georgetown clicked off its third successive win and its seventh in ten starts for the season.

All told, the Deacons committed seven errors, three of which figured in the seventh and eighth frames in which the home clan crossed the plate six times. And, seeing his mates wobble, Pitcher Joe Meador fell in line with a wild pitch in addition to weakening on the mound.

Deacons Daring

On Bases.

Taking two bases on an infield out was the one play the visitors seemed to rely upon largely. This they did on no less than three occasions with runs resulting.

They overcame a Georgetown lead in the seventh inning at the expense of Pitcher Tom Higgins, making his first start of the year for the Blue and Gray, with three singles, a base on balls and two stolen bases that sent three Deacons home and Higgins to the sidelines. Hal Poole, Hilltop veteran, went to Higgins' relief and stopped the Deacons cold thereafter.

In Georgetown's half of the seventh, Morris propelled O'Toole over the plate with his second single of the game. O'Toole had reached first on Shortstop Earp's error and advanced a base on Poole's single.

The big eighth was opened by Wholey, who singled. He was sacrificed along by Mooney and scored the tying run on King's double to center. Here the Deacons began fumbling and throwing wildly.

Visitors Blow Up

On Defense.

King reached third as Earp pegged the ball to his back instead of the bag on Evers' grounder, following which First Baseman Joyner foozled O'Toole's hopper, allowing King to score and Evers to go to third. The later counted as Catcher Hicks threw into center attempting to stop O'Toole from stealing, while the Georgetown catcher registered on a wild pitch. Poole, who had walked and journeyed to third during the fielding mess, scored on a fly by Bozek.

Walter Morris continued his good hitting and fielding for the winners, getting two safeties in five attempts and accepting eight chances afield, including a double play ball.

Augusta Easily Beats Woodberry Forest, 20-2

Orange, Va., May 5.—Collecting 10 hits and 13 runs in the sixth inning, the Augusta Military Academy nine broke up what had been up to that point an evenly contested game, defeating Woodberry Forest, 20 to 2, here this afternoon.

Once again in the eighth the locals' defense weakened, and the visitors shoved over five tallies on two hits from the delivery of May, and two passes with the bases full.

Van Pelt, visiting moundsman, held the locals to six hits, two of which went to the credit of Catcher Woolen, and had a string of thirteen strikeouts to his credit. Jones, of the Cadets, led at bat with four safeties out of four trips to the plate.

Western High Wins After Wild Game, 15-11

In a wild and woolly game Western High's baseball team of Washington topped Hyattsville High, 15 to 11, at Magruder Park yesterday. Free hitting, loose fielding and stolen bases galore marked the contest.

Western piled up a 13-1 lead in the first two innings, but then did no more scoring until the ninth. The Washingtonians hopped on Meudy, Hyattsville starting pitcher, with gusto, but were checked by Meade, who replaced Meudy. It was Meade's debut as a pitcher for Hyattsville and his work was heartening to the Blue and Gold. He will be available again next season.

Both teams were shaky afield, Western turning in five errors and Hyattsville eight. Each club also made free with the arm of the opposing catcher, Western stealing 16 bases and Hyattsville 12.

G. U. Prep Midgets Win No-Hit Game by 24-0

Jack McMahon, diminutive Georgetown Prep student, hurled a no-hit, no-run game yesterday to lead his team, the Georgetown Prep Midgets, to a 24-0 victory over the Episcopal High Midgets in a seven-inning game played at Garrett Park.

McMahon struck out seven and walked three. Burke and Boswell, of Episcopal, two of those walked, managed to reach third, only to be stranded there as the smooth-playing Prepmen retired the side.

Pinder was hit hard nad often by Georgeotwn and was further beset by seven errors on the part of his colleagues.

Batting honors went to Hayden and Owens, while Keating shone in the field for the winners.

of all sports "so far as may be consistent with present contract commitments."

"The purpose," the announcement continues, "is, as speedily as may be, to bring expenditures in connection with athletic contests into harmony with the general scale of salaries and expenditures throughout the university.

"In particular is it hoped and expected that the emphasis that is now placed upon gate receipts from football contests will be brought to an end and that the cost of the athletic work of the university may be met by theincome from permanent endowments given to the university for that purpose.

"At Columbia there will no longer be any distinction between the work of the department of physical education and the intercollegiate athletic contests. These will all be assimilated under one direction, one management and one set of standards, financial and academic."

G. U. VS. DUKE NETMEN.

Georgetown's tennis team makes an effort to return to the win column today when it engages the Duke University netmen on the courts of Columbia Country Club, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. In their last two matches the Hilltoppers have bowed to North Carolina and Pittsburgh. Only the playing of Gregory Mangin, No. 6 in national rankings, has stood up successfully in recent battles for the home team.

W. & L. Freshmen Score As Pitcher Fans Sixteen

Lexington, Va., May 5.—"Kippy" Sauerbrum, Washington and Lee freshman left-hander, turned in another good game here this afternoon, letting the Virginia Yearlings down, 7-1. Sauerbrum fanned sixteen Virginia batters and allowed eight scattered hits. Virginia batsmen fanned in every nining but the seventh, and in three innings—second, fifth and ninth—three men were struck out.

Babcock, Virginia pitcher, was nicked for nine hits and fanned ten men, but three of the hits were home runs. Miller, hard hitting shortstop, got two circuit drives, and Cuomo opened the game with a four-base hit in the first frame.

Episcopal High Beats St. Alban's Nine, 6-3

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., May 5.—Episcopal's High's baseball team won a well-played contest from St. Alban's, of Washington, here this afternoon by the count of 6 to 3, spreading its hits and runs over five of the nine innings and committing but two errors, both of these being charged to Evans, third baseman.

Ned Shippen, Saint right fielder, turned in a good all-around performance to keep his team in the running, hitting safely thrice in five times at bat, one of his hits being a double; stealing a base and scoring a run.

Barnes struck out ten of the visitors, but almost offset his good work by walking nine.

Maryland Nine Guest Of Princeton Today

Maryland University nine takes time out from Tri-State League competition today to play Princeton at Princeton, N. J. The Old Line Club has won eight out of its thirteen games to date, having beaten West Virginia in its last appearance. In the league Maryland holds second place with six victories nad four defeats.

Harry Milburn, right-hander, probably will do the pitching against the Tigers.

W. & M. WINS OVER CADET NINE, 11-3

"Lefty" White Fans 14; Indians Wipe Out 2-Run Lead.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., May 5.—William and Mary turned in a smashing victory here today to complete its home series with a 11-to-3 win over Virginia Military Institute.

Carter White, Indian southpaw ace, again starred on the mound to keep up his strike-out record of fourteen or more per game.

While White kept things under control his teammates hopped on the offerings of two Virginia Military Institute hurlers and amassed a total of thirteen safe blows, which included four extra-base performances. McBride and Lacroix led both teams in hitting with three safeties each, while Laughoron, of Virginia Military Institute, climbed into the spotlight with a long home run in the third frame.

The visitors broke ice in the first inning and pushed two runs across on the only walk issued by White during the game, and an error.

Strikes Out Side Three Times.

The Indian pitcher warmed to the occasion after this and retired the side with three straight strikeouts, an act which he repeated three times in the nine frames.

First Sacker Cutchin of the Cadets furnished a thrill for the crowded stands in grabbing Ferrell's hot liner with his bare hand in the third to retire the side and prevent two extra runs crossing the plate. Later on Mozeleski and Cappola duplicated the nipping stunt by pulling a nice double play to lay a Cadet ninth-inning rally low. Capt. Bill Scott of the Indians, although walked three times and gaining no hits, burned the paths up on his free trips to score two of the team's tallies.

Coach Kellison and his Indians leave for their annual Northern trip tomorrow.

V. P. I. Freshmen Streak Stopped by Oakridge

Blacksburg, Va., May 5.—Oakridge Institute of North Carolina stopped the winning streak of the V. P. I. Freshmen by taking a 10-to-9 verdict in a nip and tuck slugging match here today. The Goblets matched the Carolinians at bat with 13 hits, but poor base running cost them the game after getting three men on base in the ninth. V. P. I. used three pitchers and Oakridge two. Bowen, V. P. I. second baseman, led at bat with four hits.

STOCK PRICES DROP AFTER EARLY RALLY

Weakness of Steel Causes Decline at Close; Rails Are Heavy.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—The stock market began today's session with seemingly good intentions, but events proved that it needed more tangible support.

Prices rallied in the morning, sold off around noon, advanced again at midafternoon and then slumped into a lower closing. Sales were larger than yesterday's, but amounted to only 1,600,000 shares.

Weakness of the steel issues facilitated the late decline. U. S. Steel went to within less than a point of the bear market low, and although it closed off the bottom, the net loss was 2¾. The common was apparently somewhat upset by the action of the preferred, which dropped 3. Other steels, including Inland, Bethlehem, Republic, Byers and Vanadium, were soggy, but in some instances the losses were nearly recovered. American Metal Markets, first of the weekly trade reviews to report, said there had been no change of consequence in production ratios.

Rails Are Heavy.

American Telephone, American Can and Allied Chemical were other late soft spots and their losses of 2 or 3 points generally exceeded declines in other pivotal stocks. Heaviness in the rail group was rather unsettling to those who look to that section for clues as to future market action. New York Central, Pennsylvania and New Haven lost major fractions, in Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific and Atchison net declines averaged a point and a half. Coppers were unpopular, but the ofls moved quietly, despite the omission of Ohio Oil's dividend and the reduction of Vacuum's. Motors eased toward the close; perhaps they were a little disappointed by the 20 per cent gain in April production over March.

Secretary Mellon's address to the International Chamber of Commerce—his first important public pronouncement on business conditions since the depression started—was published shortly before the close. Wall street read it eagerly, particularly the avoidance of any prediction as to "when or how we shall emerge from the valley in which we are now traveling" and Mr. Mellon's confidence as to the ultimate establishment of "a more solid economic foundation."

Differences on Wages.

His remarks concerning the necessity of downward price revisions and restoration of a balance between production and consumption expressed sentiments heard in banking circles. There is considerable difference of opinion in Wall street on the wage question.

The day was devoid of other news. The car loadings figures, published each Wednesday morning, showed that most of the more than seasonal increases of the previous fortnight had been maintained in the week ended April 25, for the decline from the preceding week amounted to 730 cars.

Except for May, wheat futures lost ¾ to 1 cent, reflecting beneficial rains in the Northwest and increased contract stocks. Corn sagged more moderately. Cotton reversed itself when share prices began to droop and closed 9 to 12 points net lower.

Narrow and mixed changes appeared in the foreign currencies. The French franc and sterling continued to move oppositely, the former firming slightly while London cables again sagged. The Spanish peseta rallied.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 5 (A.P.).—Predictions of a general break up of drought conditions in spring crop territory gave wheat bears an advantage today. Trade forecasts were also that the United States Government crop report due Friday would indicate a big yield of winter wheat. Export demand for North American breadstuffs was disappointing.

Wheat closed irregular, 1¼ cents lower to ¾ cents higher; corn, ½ off to ⅛ up; oats at ⅛ to ¼ decline to ⅛ advance, and provisions unchanged to 50 cents down.

Profit taking after a six-day advance added to downward pressure on wheat, and tended to curtail buying power. Reports of new moisture in Canada came early, but failed to impress traders, except that simultaneous low barometer readings pointed to likelihood of further downpours, a circumstance which promised to bring about material relief from prolonged abnormal dryness. Good rains in domestic spring wheat States were also effective toward checking price rallies and afterward leading to substantial setbacks in new crop quotations. It was estimated that 50 per cent of seeding had been completed in Alberta and Saskatchewan provinces, Canada, and 20 per cent in Manitoba.

Only transient bullish effects resulted from word that European Continental countries were liberal buyers of Argentina wheat and that the Orient was purchasing on a large scale from Australia. Advices were received that Russian sowing of spring wheat showed delays ranging from ten days to almost a month, and that practically Russia's entire wheat surplus has been exported. Passing notice was taken of southern Illinois reports that chinch bugs were much earlier this season than usual, and threatened possible widespread damage.

In the corn market reports of a better shipping demand failed to overcome except temporarily the effects of selling that resulted from wheat weakness. Oats followed corn.

Provisions responded to downturns of hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 62½; 62⅞, 64⅜; September, 62⅛, 63¼; 64, 64⅛; December, 65⅛, 67¼, 67⅜. Corn, July, 57⅜, 57½, 58¼, 58½; September, 57⅜, 57½, 58⅜, 58½; December, 51¼, 52½.

BOND PRICES HIGHER IN ACTIVE MARKET

Rising Trend Noted in Rails, With Utilities, Industrials Less in Demand.

New York, May 5 (A.P.).—Trading in bonds was more active today and prices were generally, if moderately, higher. Sales totaled $8,835,600, compared with $6,891,000 yesterday.

The best evidence of the rising trend appeared among the rails where the great majority of issues closed higher. The broad nature of the movement may be judged from the fact that issues of such diversified standing as Chicago, Burlington & Quincy general 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis series E 4½s, Illinois Central refunding 4s, Nickel Plate series O 4½s, and Missouri Pacific series I 5s closed higher after active trading.

Spotty activity appeared among foreign obligations in which the upward movement was less uniform than in the rails. Loans of Queensland, the Australian Commonwealth and New South Wales appreciated, although only the latter two were active. German 5½s reflected steady selling pressure and lost 2¼ points to close at 77¾. They were one of the most active issues of the whole list. Other German obligations were usually higher on moderate sales. Chilean and Argentine issues made mixed changes. Most other foreign loans closed higher.

Public utility and industrial bonds experienced less activity than the rail group and the advance among them was less marked. Varying degrees of strength appeared in representative issues like American Telephone debenture 5½s of 1943, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s of 1961, Detroit Edison series D 4½s, International Telephone 5s, North American 5s of 1961, and Public Service Electric & Gas 4s of 1971.

Phillips Petroleum 5½s of 1939 made a temporary gain but reacted to close with a 2-point loss at 66, a new low for 1931. Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, Shell Union Oil 5s, Goodrich 6s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube series A 5s and Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s made some headway.

Loans of the United States Government were easy on a moderate turnover.

BANKERS HEAR TALK ON TRUSTS' ACTIVITY

Edward Reilly, Legal Aid to Moody's Service, Addresses Meeting Here.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

New problems of fiduciary service which have arisen from the stock market collapse and the apparent disposition on the part of some courts to regard corporate trustees as virtual insurers of funds placed under their control were discussed last night at a meeting of the fiduciary section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, by Edward J. Reilly, trust counsel of Moody's Investors Service, and legal editor of Trust Companies Magazine.

Speaking at the Willard Hotel on the subject of "Trust Investment Supervision," Mr. Reilly declared these factors have quickened appreciation on the part of corporate fiduciaries of the signal importance of equipping themselves to furnish a thorough and comprehensive quality of investment management for trusts in their care.

"To insure their position as foremost conservators of funds set aside for the protection of families," he said, "they have been zealous to provide not merely unquestioned fidelity but able, active and expert supervision of investments, contemplating initial analysis in the light of all corollary facts affecting the beneficiaries, legal restrictions and investment science, as well as constant supervision of each issue incorporated in the trusts and periodic review of each trust as a separate business entity.

More Caution Learned.

"Recent disquieting trends in many security markets," he reminded, "have impressed alert fiduciaries not only with the importance of maintaining diversification of investments along sound lines, but also of examining most carefully into the investment quality of the holdings. The degree of adverse fluctuation which obtains in securities having the highest ratings is of comparatively slight moment when contrasted with the adverse fluctuation suffered by issues of lesser quality and lower rating.

"The alert fiduciary," Mr. Reilly concluded, "is equipped not only to properly evaluate and interpret these factors but also to take appropriate steps for the protection of the trusts in its care whenever changed economic conditions or disturbances within particular industries prompt revision of ratings and consequent alteration of the investment quality intended to be maintained."

Mr. Reilly was formerly trust officer of the Fulton Trust Co. of New York and from 1921 to 1924, was assistant counsel of the War Finance Corporation in this city. He has lectured widely on fiduciary and legal subjects and was for a time a member of the faculty of the School of Business Administration, College of the City of New York and the Washington College of Law. His contributions to the literature of fiduciary administration have been numerous and notable.

The elaborate program of improvement at Chesapeake Beach, which last year witnessed the completion of the new Seaside Park, the construction of a new motor road between the beach and Washington and the addition of considerable new equipment to the Chesapeake Beach Railway, is being continued this spring with the restoration of the long wharf, which will make possible fast steamship service this summer between Chesapeake Beach and Baltimore.

A passenger service will be provided by the Wilson Line, which operates along the Delaware between Philadelphia and Wilmington and which last season introduced a service between Washington and Chapel Point. The steamship to be used on the Chesapeake Bay trip between Chesapeake Beach and Baltimore will be the State of Delaware, one of the largest vessels in the company's fleet, capable of carrying 4,500 passengers. The vessel is designed entirely for recreation and does not carry freight.

The proposed schedule will provide for a trip leaving Baltimore at 9 a. m. five days each week, arriving at the beach about noon. The boat will leave on the return journey probably about 3 p. m. It will not only bring the beach within easy reach of Baltimore, but it will make possible a bay trip for Washington people, via train to the beach, boat to Baltimore and train or bus back to Washington.

The wharf will be completed, it is expected, within the next few weeks, and the steamship service will begin probably on May 30. Seaside Park this year will open on May 21.

President Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, is attending the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce as a delegate from the American Bankers Association.

Baltimore Plane Maneuvers Scored

Society of Friends Sends Protest to President, Despite Plans.

Baltimore, Md., May 5 (A.P.).—A protest against holding Army Air Corps maneuvers over Baltimore May 20 has been sent to President Hoover and the War Department by the two Baltimore yearly meetings of the Society of Friends.

The two organizations have members throughout the State and in parts of Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and the District of Columbia. The Friends object to the maneuvers "as a warlike gesture."

The Friends protest followed that of Chief Judge Samuel Dennis, who complained that the passage of 672 planes over the city would impede the business of his court. The War Department has announced, however, that the maneuvers will take place as scheduled.

Western High History Club to Change Name

For the nine months of the George Washington Bicentennial Convention, the History Club of Western High School will change its name to the George Washington Junior History Club, the George Washington Bicentennial Commission announced yesterday.

Representative Sol Bloom, associate director, expressed the hope that other high schools throughout the country will take similar action. The club will conduct a special study course on the character and achievements of George Washington. Its officers include Lucille Bawker, president; Theodore Staples, vice president; George Barber, secretary and Eleanor Davidson, treasurer.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CEDING OF SECTION OPPOSED BY SMITH

House Member Tells Body in Lyon Park That He Is Against Action.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation in Lyon Park last night, Representative Judge Howard W. Smith correcting a statement in which he was quoted as favoring retrocession, declared, "I am personally and politically opposed to the ceding of any part of Virginia to the District of Columbia or to any one else."

"I spent a hard year in being elected to Congress and, I do not propose to favor anything that will tend to cut the limb to which I have climbed," he said.

Discussing county affairs and those problems affecting not only Arlington but Fairfax and Alexandria City, Representative Smith said:

"The time is coming in the future when what today is known as the metropolitan area will be one great city and care should be taken that plans are now made for its proper development not for 25 but for 100 years."

That there may be a closer contact with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, I have had meetings with the boards of supervisors with Arlington and Fairfax Counties and the City Council of Alexandria, he stated.

Upon my recommendation committees from the three bodies have been appointed with the view of bringing about that closer relation that is absolutely necessary for the proper development of this entire area, he stated.

In conclusion he said, "It is my earnest desire to help Arlington County solve its problems that the proper development may be brought about and I will be glad at all times to confer with representatives of your body."

Leon Arnold, president of the Washington, Virginia-Maryland Coach Co., the next speaker, discussing the transportation question, declared that Arlington County today has the best service of any of the outlying communities around the District of Columbia.

Our company came into Arlington County five years ago and at that time I promised the people of this county that it would be my policy to give the best service possible, that I have tried to do and am continuing to maintain it despite the fact that we are along way from being paid for the service given.

Mr. Arnold answered a series of questions which he had been asked to answer and assured the association that he will in every way, as far as possible, correct conditions where needed and will add to the service if a survey will warrant it.

Mr. Arnold appealed to members of the association that when reporting a condition which they felt should be corrected that they be sure to get the number of the bus. Unless this is obtained I am at a loss to know how to act, he stated.

A. F. Thelander, architect of Arlington County, reported yesterday that during the past week contracts have been awarded for construction of five homes in Arlington County representing an expenditure of $60,000.

Of the six, two are being constructed in Country Club Hills, one in Golf Club Manor and two in Lee Heights section.

"With the rapid completion of the new Arlington Memorial Bridge and work already having started on the construction of the Lee boulevard there appears nothing that can prevent a big building boom in Arlington County," Mr. Thelander declared.

"The most urgent need in Arlington County today is an adequate county-wide sewerage system and under the new form of county government the officials can do no better thing for the future of the county than to proceed and formulate a plan whereby the county can have an adequate county-wide sewerage system," he said.

"Aside from the building program going on direct from my office, there are now in course of construction homes in Lyon Village which represent an expenditure in excess of $100,000."

Joseph A. C. Fought, of Leeway, last night announced he will be a candidate for the office of constable in Washington district at the county election November 3.

Mr. Fought has been a resident of Arlington County, formerly known as Alexandria County, for the past 44 years. On October 12, 1930, he retired from the Washington Fire Department after 23 years of active service.

He served with the Virginia Volunteers in Cuba, and with the Sixth and Third Cavalry, U. S. A., in Cuba, China and the Philippine Islands and was discharged in 1902. He joined the Washington Fire Department in 1907.

Members of the Cadet Corps and the Girls Auxiliary of the Washington-Lee High School, numbering 235, in charge of Lieut. Col. C. S. McNeill, will leave this morning in buses for Winchester, Va., where they will participate in the parade in connection with the Apple Blossom Festival.

Members of the Clarendon Woman's Christian Temperance Union will go to the Washington-Lee High School tomorrow at 12 o'clock at which time awards will be made in the essay contest the union is sponsoring.

Awarding of the prizes will be made by County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp.

James E. Peak Says Wife Deserted Him; Two Others Also File Actions.

After 22 years of married life, James E. Peak yesterday filed suit in Prince Georges County Circuit Court for an absolute divorce from Mrs. Elizabeth R. Peak, of Philadelphia. In his petition he alleges she deserted him in 1928.

Ryon and Hassall are lawyers in a suit filed yesterday by Dorothy B. Foster, who asks an absolute divorce from John H. Foster, whose address is given as K street near Twenty-fifth street northwest, charging she was abandoned.

The Fosters were married in 1923, the bill states, and lived together until 1926. They have a 6-year-old daughter. Mrs. Foster asks custody of the child.

Another suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday by Andrew Mitchell, naming Maggie Mitchell, whose address is said to be on H street near Fourth street northwest. Desertion is charged.

Mr. Mitchell's suit was filed through Attorneys Lansdale G. Sasscer and Waldo Burnside. The man states that he was married in 1919. They have no children.

The commissioners also received a notification yesterday that the Riverdale district road committee had chosen Henry A. Friday chairman. William Maske was elected vice chairman, and Capt. Charles Eickman secretary.

Seabrook and Hickory Grove schools were tied for first place in attendance records during April, with averages of 99.1. These two, both one-teacher schools, also had the highest attendance average in the county.

Fort Washington was next, with 97.2, the highest average in the two-teacher class. Mount Rainier, with an average of 95.5, led the graded schools, and Mount Rainier Junior High was first in its class, with 96.4. Baden, with an average of 95.6, was highest among the senior high schools. Duckettsville led the colored schools with an average of 94.6.

A bill asking permission to adopt a 4-year-old boy was filed yesterday in circuit court by Ralph C. Alsip and Lillian Alsip, who state they have had custody of the child for more than three years. The name of the child was not given in the bill.

They were given the child, the bill states, by Mrs. Effie Dyke, who had, in turn, received it from its mother. The petition also asks that the name of the child be changed to Ralph C. Alsip, jr. Attorney Robert Peter, of Rockville, appears for the petitioners.

BILLS ORDERED PAID BY FAIRFAX BOARD

Requests for Improvement of School Grounds Are Approved.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County School Board met yesterday in the board room of the county courthouse. Bills amounting to $5,094.83, the expenses for last month, exclusive of teachers' salaries, were ordered paid when approved by the trustee from the district where contracted. Of this amount $1,500 was for tuition to the town of Falls Church for pupils attending school there from Fairfax County.

The abandoned schools at Popes Head, Red Hill, Elgin, Hughesville colored and the Clifton colored were ordered certified to the circuit court for permission to be sold. In the meantime, Trustee J. T. DeBell of Centerville district was granted permission to lease the Popes Head School Building if the interested party will agree to quit the premises on 30 days' notice. Trustee Joseph Murphy of Dranesville district reported he had sold the school at Moneys Corner to J. D. Thompson for $400 and the site at Willard to Turner Wamsley for $50. The board approved the two sales.

A number of requests from school and community leagues asking for aid in improving school grounds were favorably voted upon. The Ienna League asked for sidewalks, the walks to cost approxamately $125. The league and school board will divide the expense equally. The board offered to pay one-third of the cost of a sidewalk from the schoolhouse at Vienna to the railroad along the street. Both appropriations were conditional upon the sum being available from the Providence district special funds. The sidewalks at the Lee-Jackson School will be extended. The cost of $115 will be paid out of the Falls Church district special funds.

The Oakton School League asked the board to pay one-half the cost of improving the school grounds at Oakton. The board voted to pay one-half, not to exceed $100, to be paid out of the Providence district funds. The league will present the plans to the board for its approval before the money will be available. The Chesterbrook School League was granted permission to build a roadway on the Chesterbrook School grounds and erect a fence along the East side of the grounds subject to approval of the board.

Divisional Supt. Wilbert T. Woodson was instructed to ascertain the number of soda-acid fire extinguishers needed for the schools in the county with the view of installing them this summer.

A petition was presented from the Floris and Rock Hill community league asking for a school in that vicinity. Supt. Woodson and Trustee Murphy were instructed to select a site for such a school for recommendation to the board at its next meeting.

A resolution was passed denying the use of the Vienna School grounds to baseball teams until window screens are put on the windows exposed to the baseball field.

Mrs. Elsie A. Davis, rural supervisor of white schools, made a report of the standard tests made throughout the sixth grades in the county schools. This report showed that approximately 20 per cent of the pupils in that grade were not prepared for the school work standards. Her request for three assistants to assist her in giving the standard tests in the seventh grades of the county within the next two weeks was granted.

The school board will hold a special meeting on Saturday, May 16, to consider appointment of teachers for the next school year. Several changes are being contemplated by the board. Some of the present teachers will be shifted into new communities and promotions made.

JUST as the antinoise movement appeared to be making some headway in America there comes the announcement that piano lessons are to be given regularly through radio classes.

* * * *

The formation of classes in snare drums, cornet, trombone, xylophone and oboe instruction by air is now a distinct threat. It looks like a great year for nerve specialists.

* * * *

Behind the idea of piano instruction by radio is the theory that interest in piano playing will be revived. Since the coming of the radio with its prolific outpouring of indoor music, there has been a gradual sidetracking of the piano in the American home. It has been years since evenings at home were so dull that the company felt nothing would break the montony except "Hearts and Flowers" by Sister Jennie.

* * * *

Up to the last five or six years every family felt that it should possess at least one member who could play the piano during those dull stretches in the evening when conversation went into a backspin. But since the radio program came into full flower any move of the Professor's Pride toward the piano has been a signal for armed intervention.

* * * *

There are pianos in American homes today that haven't been opened since Coolidge settled the Boston police strike.

* * * *

BUT there is a feeling that a reaction has set in against absentee music and that young people are again feeling the urge to perform personally at the piano. Instruction by radio will stimulate this urge, it is believed. Little Luther may not enthuse over the idea of piano lessons by the old-fashioned house-to-house professor, but will get a real kick out of tuning in for instructions over a national network.

* * * *

The big problem will be concentration. One of the results is bound to be the production of the boy pianist whose technique will prove indisputably that he got his lessons mixed up with the time signals, the closing grain prices and a Floyd Gibbons talk on electrical wonders.

* * * *

The possibilities of the radio in the field of instruction haven't been tapped yet. Radio classes in cartooning, house painting, musical saw playing, tap dancing, hair cutting and Swiss yodeling are in the offing.

* * * *

In the meantime the happiest man in the land is the piano merchant. He is tired of having people come into his store, point to a piano and ask, "What kind of an instrument is that?"

WE'LL BITE; WHAT'S THE JOKE?

VARIETY reports that a magician giving a demonstration before Ziegfeld and three other theatrical men the other day asked for the loan of a dollar to do a trick and nobody had it. He finally got it from a stage hand who demanded a receipt.

Mayor Cermak of Chicago will not allow any plays in which the Chicago crime wave figures. The street gunmen are complaining of rival indoor attractions.

Commenting on the earnings of 5 cents a share on the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, Jack Fabian says it is just enough to give each shareholder a ride.

"Ex-Kaiser to Defend His Title."—Headline. After such a long absence from the ring?

You won't be able to tell whether or not business has turned the corner until all those tabloid golf courses open again.

DISCRIMINATION.

THE directors of the Steel Corporation are to be retired at 70, but some of the stockholders are being rapidly retired at much earlier ages.

Charts have been introduced in New York's Seabury quiz showing that crime convictions under the new district attorney reached a new low for the past 25 years, particularly in murder cases. Still, Tammany would probably contend that any of its murder cases are all right for a pull.

POLLARD WILL OPEN KENMORE MEETING

Will Lay Wreath on Tomb of Mary Washington at Annual Session.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 5 (A.P.).—Gov. Pollard will formally open the annual meeting of the Kenmore Association tomorrow afternoon when he places a wreath on the tomb of Mary Washington here.

Among the distinguished guests coming here for the meeting tomorrow and Thursday will be Dr. Charles Moore, Representative Sol Bloom, Representative S. Otis Bland, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, and Mrs. Charles Lea.

Following the wreath laying exercises there will be a reception on the grounds near the monument. Mrs. Lea, of Pennsylvania, will pay tribute to the mother of Washington. A prayer will be offered by the Rev. Dudley Boogher, of Fredericksburg.

Dr. Moore will represent the Fine Arts Association, and Mrs. Hobart will represent the Daughters of the American Revolution, of whom she has served as president-general. Representative Bloom will be accompanied by his wife and daughter.

The visit by Gov. Pollard will be his second official visit here this year. He previously attended the Fredericksburg-Spotsylvania National Battlefield Park meeting in February.

The program Thursday will include a report on the completion of Kenmore, by Mrs. H. H. Bankard, associate adviser; a report of the custodian of Kenmore, a report by Mrs. Gari Melchers, chairman of the Kenmore auxiliary; a report by Mrs. Thomas Wheelright, regent of Kenmore, report of the State regent, report of the advisory council, report of the nominating committee, and the appointment of tellers for the annual election.

Polls for the annual election will be opened at 2:30 o'clock. The election will be followed with the remaining business, and a conference with representatives of the George Washington Bicentennial commission.

Kenmore, built in 1752, now is practically restored. A brick wall such as might have surrounded the place has been built around the lawn and a brick walkway now leads up to the house instead of the driveway which once circled the home.

Southern Railway Hits Virginia Law

Action Providing Order to Eliminate Crossings Is Attacked.

Richmond, Va., May 5 (A.P.).—The 1930 act empowering the State highway commissioner to order railways in Virginia to eliminate grade crossings was challenged as unconstitutional by the Southern Railway before the State corporation commission here today.

The crossing involved is near Antlers in Mecklenburg County, but the case would affect crossings on established highways in all parts of the State.

Counsel for the railroad argued that the 1930 act as administered was violative of article 1, section 2 of the constitution of Virginia and the fourteenth amendment of the Federal Constitution, because it deprives the railway of its property without due process of law.
